

OFFICIAL: 'LET LOCKHEED GO BROKE' ... Conglomerates Accused Of Trying To Milk Government

Washington (UPI) — Gordon Rule, an outspoken defense contracting official, said Monday the government should turn down Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s request for a $250 million loan guarantee and let the company go broke.

Chomping a black cigar, the chairman of the Navy's Contract Claims Control & Surveillance Group charged that an admiral was interfering in ship contract settlements, accused huge conglomerates of trying to squeeze every nickel possible out of the government and vowed to bar all shipyard claims for excess awards "until every goddam dollar is factually supported."

Rule appeared before a Senate subcommittee investigating defense profits and hundreds of millions of dollars in shipyard claims on government contracts.

'Bail Out' Lockheed?
Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., asked if Congress should approve the administration's request to "bail out" Lockheed by underwriting private loans to the troubled corporation for production of its L1011 jumbo jet.

"I think it's most unwise from a procurement point of view," Rule said.

"I can tell you there are other companies standing in line right now. If we do this for Lockheed, we will never live it down ... If their management has been lousy, I say let 'em go broke. I don't see why we should take this action, except possibly that they're from California."

$790 Million Backlog

Rule said his review group, which must pass all shipyard claims before they are paid, has a $790 million backlog awaiting review and more claims are coming in. Huge aerospace conglomerates, which have bought up family-owned shipyards, are "looking to see how they can make every dollar" from the government.

"I can tell you now that until every goddam dollar is factually supported and legally sound, no claims are going through," he said.

Rule accused Rear Adm. Nathan Sonenshein, commander of the Naval Ship Systems Command, of "personally injecting" himself into two major contract claims, and settling them himself. He suggested Proxmire call on Sonenshein to explain why he acted without any apparent legal study of whether the firms involved were entitled to extra funds.

Cart Before Horse

Rule said Sonenshein should "stay out" of the claims and "hold himself for appeals" of negotiated settlements. He said Sonenshein was doing it "bass backwards."

Rule recently received the Distinguished Civil Service Award for riding herd on contractors' claims.

Seated across the room from him was Ernest Fitzgerald, a subcommittee consultant and a former Air Force contract reviewer who was fired after he blew the whistle on cost overruns involving Lockheed's C5A contract.

"I was happy to get the award," Rule said. "I could have been sitting over there with Ernie Fitzgerald. Do you think it shows the Navy is more enlightened than the Air Force?"

Unicam Fieldhouse Plan Control Axed

... EXON READIES MORE VETOES

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Monday delivered his eighth veto, promised a ninth and forecast a tenth, but announced he has approved with reservations a bill establishing a statewide system of technical community colleges.

Exon told a news conference he has also signed into a law a number of measures increasing state education assistance for handicapped, emotionally disturbed, multihandicapped and trainable mentally retarded children.

The governor vetoed LB1031, which provides for legislative committee approval of architects and their plans for construction of the proposed new state office building and the University of Nebraska fieldhouse.

Legislative 'Invasion'

That measure represents a legislative "invasion of the constitutional prerogatives" of the executive branch of state government, Exon said.

Those prerogatives, in this case, lie with the State Building Commission and the University of Nebraska Board of Regents, the governor said.

The promised veto went to LB256, the new personal property tax exemption proposal, but Exon again declined to say whether he would veto the measure in time to allow senators to attempt to override his objections before they adjourn.

First, sponsors of the bill must gather the 25 votes required to pass it on Wednesday.

Also Facing Veto

LB707, a bill increasing state aid to counties by about $2.9 million a year, also appeared to lie squarely in the path of a gubernatorial veto.

After signing the special education aid bills, Exon said, "it looks like this is as far as we could possibly go in using our spending resources without violating my commitment to hold the line on state tax rates."

"I suspect we will have to exercise the veto power in respect to LB707, but I have not yet made a final determination."

New Evidence

Exon said he has new evidence to buttress his contention that LB256 would, "for the most part," shift a tax load from "people in a position to pay" to every sales and income taxpayer in the state.

The bill would provide a 20% tax exemption in 1972 for agricultural and business inventory and equipment, requiring the commitment of $9.6 million in state sales-income tax funds for replacement revenue.

In Douglas County, Exon said, 21,000 taxpayers now pay personal property taxes, largely on business inventories.

Their total bill last year was $11,712,192, he said.

80% By 801

But, he said, figures show that almost $9.4 million of that amount, or about 80%, was paid by only 801 large taxpayers.

In Lancaster County, he said, 12,000 taxpayers paid $5,880,493 in personal property taxes last year.

But nearly $5 million of that amount, or 85%, was paid by only 352 large taxpayers.

'Primrose Path'

Farmers and small businessmen are "being led down the primrose path" in their support for the bill, Exon said, because it provides the greatest relief to "those who do not need it nor are they entitled to it."

Next year, he again promised, he would submit "a fair proposal" which would "give a legitimate tax break to the family-sized farm and the small businessman."

Exon signed into law LB152, which permits the Nebraska Investment Council to purchase federally guaranteed student loans, and commended its sponsor, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, for "helping young people to help themselves gain a place in society."

Concept Backed

LB759, the technical community college bill which will provide for 75% state operational funding of the schools, may need some technical corrections in 1972, Exon said, "but I wholeheartedly endorse the concept of a statewide independent system."

The special education bills — LB179, LB463 and LB977, all accompanied by appropriations riders — will cost $1.8 million.

"While the adoption of these laws results in spending considerable sums of money, they can be accommodated within my budget without creating any increase in the sales and income tax," Exon said.

Also approved was LB455, which qualifies an additional number of retired teachers as reserve teachers at a cost of $77,000.

Council Actions

The City Council Monday unanimously approved the concept of a high-rise housing project for the elderly in Havelock, while in another action it rescinded 6-1 its earlier approval of Mayor Schwartzkopf's city department directors.

Exon Meets Angry Farmers; Says Floods May Get Worse

By WAYNE KREUSCHER

North Platte — Gov. J. James Exon Monday night told a group of farmers angry about lowland flooding along the North Platte River that the situation may become "a lot worse."

The governor and other officials were speaking to more than 50 farmers in the small Rosedale schoolhouse about eight miles northwest of North Platte.

Allen Madison, who called the meeting of farmers in the North Platte area, said something had to be done about the heavy deluge of water now coming down the North Platte River.

He and other farmers noted are rapid snowmelts or more heavy rains.

He explained that the peak period for runoff from spring rains and snowmelts that drain into the Platte is in mid-June.

Burl Johnson, assistant state civil defense director, explained to the farmers that in various years, irrigation reservoirs on the Platte in Wyoming held much of the water draining into the Platte, thus averting serious flooding in Nebraska.

However, he explained that because of heavy snowfall and rain this year, these structures in Wyoming are now filled to capacity and additional runoff is being sent down the Platte into Nebraska.

He noted that although many people think of these reservoirs as flood control dams, they actually were built for irrigation.

Johnson pointed out that farmers in the North Platte area may have to follow the lead of the Panhandle area and request federal funds for the construction of dikes along the river.

Prosecutor Says He'll Bring Two Panthers To Trial Again

New Haven, Conn. (AP) — Judge Harold M. Mulvey declared a mistrial Monday in the six-month trial of Black Panther Chairman Bobby G. Seale and a local Panther leader. The prosecutor said he would bring them to trial again.

The Superior Court judge made his ruling after the jury of five blacks and seven whites, selected over a period of four months, insisted it could not agree on verdicts on any of the charges faced by Seale or Ericka Huggins arising from the slaying of Alex Rackley, another party member.

"I declare a mistrial for the reason that the jury has failed to reach a verdict on all of the charges" in the two cases, Mulvey said. He thanked the 12 jurors and discharged them. They had deliberated for 23 hours over a six-day period.

The judge set Tuesday for a meeting in court with both defendants, their attorneys and the prosecutor. He did not explain the purpose of the meeting, but the subjects under discussion were expected to include a date for a new trial and requests that Seale and Mrs. Huggins be released on bail.

"I absolutely will prosecute again," said State's Atty. Arnold Markle.

Seale's attorney, Charles R. Garry, asked for an immediate retrial, but Mrs. Huggins' lawyer, Catherine Roraback, did not.

Speechless, 'Unbelievable'
Supporters of the defendants who had been coming to the marble court building throughout the trial were speechless occasionally muttering, "unbelievable."

As the judge announced his decision, Seale cocked his head, smiled and made a facial expression that indicated resignation at the outcome. Mrs. Huggins smiled slightly but had no other visible reaction.

When the two left the building to the chants of "Free Bobby and Ericka" by some 100 supporters, Seale raised his hands — handcuffed and holding a briefcase — in a gesture to the crowd. Mrs. Huggins smiled over her shoulder as she was escorted into a police car. They were returned to state prisons in Natick and Montville.

Comment Prevented

A court order prevented the attorneys or the judge in the case from commenting on the trial. But Theodore Koskoff, the attorney for a Black Panther convicted of conspiring to murder Rackley, said the charges against Seale and Mrs. Huggins should be dropped.

"Any time the state can't sustain its burden of a 'reasonable doubt,' they ought to throw the case out," Koskoff said. "How many shots should the state get?"

The Panther leaders each face two charges that could bring the death penalty — kidnapping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder — plus conspiracy to kidnap and to murder. In addition, Mrs. Huggins was charged with binding with criminal intent.

Peak Moved From School At Kearney

... 'FOR HIS OWN GOOD'

Warden Maurice Sigler confirmed Monday 16-year-old Duane C. Peak, key figure in the boobytrap bomb slaying of Omaha patrolman Larry Minard, has been removed from the Boys Training School at Kearney.

Sigler declined to reveal Peaks present whereabouts, saying only that it was somewhere "outside of Nebraska."

Peak, who admitted placing a dynamite-laden suitcase in a vacant house on Omaha's predominantly black Near North Side and then luring police there with a telephone report of a woman screaming for help, was originally charged with first degree murder in District Court.

His case was later transferred to Juvenile Court, where he entered a guilty plea to a charge of delinquency.

Peak was the state's star witness in the trial of two others — Edward Poindexter, 26, and David Rice, 23 — accused in the death.

Rice and Poindexter were found guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. Both have filed appeals.

DUANE C. PEAK

Defense counsel at the time claimed Peaks attorney, Tom Carey, had made a "deal" with the Douglas County attorney's office to get his client off with a lighter sentence in exchange for Peak's testimony implicating Poindexter and Rice.

Sigler, asked to comment on reports Peak had been taken from the Kearney facility following a threat on his life, said Peak was moved "for his own good."

"We moved him for his personal benefit," Sigler added.

Birkhan Is Sentenced In Brunswick Incident

One of the individuals tagged as a "ringleader" in a March 9 conspiracy and malicious destruction of property incident at the Brunswick Plant was sentenced Monday to two years in the Nebraska Penal Complex on each felony count.

Lancaster District Judge William Hastings ordered the sentences of Dale R. Birkhahn to run concurrently and also ordered that the defendant be given psychiatric examination and evaluation and treatment if necessary.

Birkhahn, who had pleaded guilty April 5 to both the conspiracy and malicious destruction of property charges, is the first to be sentenced in connection with the incident which originally was reported by officials to involve a conspiracy to bomb certain buildings including the State Capitol and the police helicopter.

Charges were dismissed in Lancaster County Court against Roger E. Frahm, 25, of 949 E. who was also charged with a felony conspiracy offense.

Two others, Jason Rice and Katherine Allen, have pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court to conspiracy charges. The second charge of malicious destruction of property originally filed against each was dismissed.

Charges against the three other women originally charged, Elsie Kalwarf, Guylene Citta and Myrna Newton, have been dismissed, while the two other defendants, Trevor Morgan and Martin Urbanec, have waived preliminary hearings in county court and have been bound over to District Court for further disposition.

Strode Nabbed By FBI; Working With Carnival

Omaha — Paul C. Young, special agent in charge of the Omaha FBI division, announced the arrest of Harold Junior Strode in Colorado Springs, Colo., Monday afternoon.

Strode was taken into custody by FBI agents and officers of the Colorado Springs police department after he was found working with a carnival in that city.

Strode, 35, had been sought by the FBI since he and Dr. Bradley Phillip Neer were indicted last Oct. 13 by a federal grand jury in Omaha on 13 counts involving interstate transportation of stolen securities, mail fraud and conspiracy.

These charges arose from an alleged fraud involving $98,500 in Nebraska Welfare Department funds. Strode will be taken before the U.S. magistrate in Colorado Springs for setting of a bond Tuesday morning, and will ultimately be returned to Nebraska for further prosecutive action, FBI officials said.

Strode and Dr. Neer, a Silver Springs, Md., veterinarian formerly employed by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, were accused of obtaining money from the state for "unperformed services." The services were to have been performed by a fictitious consulting firm in connection with a nonexistent federal-state model computer program.

Dr. Neer, on April 2, pleaded guilty in Federal District Court in Lincoln on six counts of the 13-count indictment. The other seven were dismissed.

Sentencing was deferred to await a probation officer's report.

Strode was fired from the state welfare director's post in April, 1970, following discovery of expense account irregularities, including an unauthorized trip to the Bahamas Islands.

Two days later he dropped out of sight after telephoning his wife from Washington, D.C., that he was returning home. The $28,500 shortage in department funds was disclosed about two months later.

Strode was appointed welfare director by Gov. Norbert Tiemann in 1967.

Strode Nabbed By FBI; Working With Carnival

Omaha — Paul C. Young, special agent in charge of the Omaha FBI division, announced the arrest of Harold Junior Strode in Colorado Springs, Colo., Monday afternoon.

Strode was taken into custody by FBI agents and officers of the Colorado Springs police department after he was found working with a carnival in that city.

Strode, 35, had been sought by the FBI since he and Dr. Bradley Phillip Neer were indicted last Oct. 13 by a federal grand jury in Omaha on 13 counts involving interstate transportation of stolen securities, mail fraud and conspiracy.

These charges arose from an alleged fraud involving $88,500 in Nebraska Welfare Department funds. Strode will be taken before the U.S. magistrate in Colorado Springs for setting of a bond Tuesday morning, and will ultimately be returned to Nebraska for further prosecutive action, FBI officials said.

Strode and Dr. Neer, a Silver Springs, Md., veterinarian formerly employed by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, were accused of obtaining money from the state for "unperformed services." The services were to have been performed by a fictitious consulting firm in connection with a nonexistent federal-state model computer program.

Dr. Neer, on April 2, pleaded guilty in Federal District Court in Lincoln on six counts of the 13-count indictment. The other seven were dismissed.

Sentencing was deferred to await a probation officer's report. Strode was fired from the state welfare director's post in April, 1970, following discovery of expense account irregularities, including an unauthorized trip to the Bahamas Islands.

Two days later he dropped out of sight after telephoning his wife from Washington, D.C., that he was returning home. The $88,500 shortage in department funds was disclosed about two months later.

Strode was appointed welfare director by Gov. Norbert Tiemann in 1967.

Heath Seeks OK Of Entry

London — Prime Minister Edward Heath opened his campaign to win approval for Britain's entry into the Common Market by telling the House of Commons that the way was open for a new era in Europe. Although his public mood is calm, the opposition Labor Party is divided on how, and when, to vote on the issue. The government wants the vote this summer, but the Labor Party insists that it be put off to the fall.

East Pakistan Not Controlled

New Delhi — Contrary to reports from the West Pakistani military regime, sources in East Pakistan said the area continues to be in a state of disruption with persistent guerrilla activity and killings of civilians. Although West Pakistani forces have widened their control, the guerrillas and general Bengali noncooperation have prevented the army from effecting any kind of civil administration.

China Reassures Revolutionaries

Hong Kong — In the past few days China has accompanied its moves toward a thaw in relations with non-Communist countries with a series of statements reaffirming support for revolutionary movements, especially those in Southeast Asia. Analysts view these statements as an attempt to reassure China's foreign allies that her new foreign policies do not mean any lessening in support. (More on Page 7.)

Cities Forced To Scrimp

Detroit — Although urban America is crying out for revitalization, the cities have found that a lack of money is forcing them to cut services. Education has been one of the areas the hardest hit with many cities forced to cut teaching staffs. Always among the first things trimmed have been the small things — new trees, museums, children's programs — that make life a little more bearable for the city dwellers.

Applicants Exceed Jobs

Washington — A government program to find jobs for scientists, engineers and technicians who have been laid off by the aerospace and defense industries was reported to be in full operation. A spokesman for the Labor Department, which administers the program, said, however, that the number of applicants far exceeds the number of registered jobs.

License Laws Overturned

Washington — State laws that strip an uninsured driver of his operator's license if he is involved in an accident, whether it was his fault or not, were ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. (More on Page 2.)

Mistrial Declared

New Haven, Conn. — The kidnapping and murder trial of Black Panther leader Bobby

G. Seale and Mrs. Ericka Huggins ended in a mistrial when the jury was unable to reach a verdict. (More on Page 1.)

'Prime Suspect' Arrested

New York — Police arrested a man they described as a "prime suspect" in the murders of two patrolmen last Friday. The suspect had been seized on the basis of information supplied by an informant who was described by a police official as being involved primarily in narcotics cases rather than in the shootings.

Uninsured Driver
License Law Voided

The New York Times

Washington — The Supreme Court Monday declared unconstitutional provisions of state "financial responsibility" laws that revoke the drivers' licenses of uninsured motorists who are involved in accidents, regardless of whether they were at fault.

Thirty-seven states have this type of law, intended to pressure motorists into carrying adequate liability insurance.

Typically, they provide that a motorist involved in an accident loses his driver's license and automobile registration unless he is insured or can post a bond to cover any injuries. No consideration is given to whether or not he was at fault.

Hearing Is Necessary

Monday the court unanimously struck down Georgia's version of this law, declaring that before a license can be revoked the uninsured motorist must be given a hearing, at which there must be proof of "a reasonable possibility" that a court would hold him liable for damages.

In an opinion by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., the Supreme Court said Georgia

Sickness Subsiding

Maun, Botswana — An outbreak of sleeping sickness that has hospitalized 1,043 persons since 1970 in this northern Botswana community appears to be subsiding, officials report.

Grenade Tossed

Saigon — Two men dressed in South Vietnamese marine uniforms broke through a police checkpoint in downtown Saigon and tossed a grenade when officers tried to halt them.

may continue to use its law only if it gives motorists "fault" hearings before revoking their licenses, or if it decides to revoke licenses only after courts have found uninsured motorists liable for damages in civil lawsuits.

Justice Brennan said the "financial responsibility" scheme violates the Constitution's due process clause because motorists, who are liable for damages only if they negligently cause injuries, are stripped of their licenses without an opportunity to show that they were not negligent.

Nebraska Believed Affected

New York, North Carolina and Massachusetts have compulsory insurance laws. Arizona, California, Colorado, Maine, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Utah, Vermont and Virginia have laws or court decisions that require proof of fault. All other 37 states, including Nebraska, are believed to be affected by Monday's decision.

The appeal was brought by a circuit-riding Methodist minister, the Rev. Paul J. Bell Jr. of Hamilton, Ga., who commuted between three rural congregations in an uninsured car. After a 5-year-old girl rode her bicycle through a stop sign and into the side of his car, his license was suspended.

Although a lower court said he was not at fault, the state court of appeals upheld the loss of his license, and he appealed to the Supreme Court with the aid of an anti-poverty legal services unit.

VC Blow Up Aviation Fuel

Saigon — U.S. aircraft carried on normal operations out of Cam Ranh Bay on Monday despite a Viet Cong sapper attack that sent 1½ million gallons of aviation fuel up in flames.

Cam Ranh Bay is where President Lyndon B. Johnson visited in 1966 and 1967 and at that time it was considered the most secure U.S. base in South Vietnam.

A U.S. military spokesman said air operations were not affected, although fires burned more than 18 hours after the attack Sunday night by a half dozen enemy sappers, troops specially trained in infiltration.

"There's plenty of aviation gas available at Nha Trang and Phan Rang," said the spokesman, Maj. Richard Gardner.

Nha Trang is 25 miles north of Cam Ranh and Phan Rang is

Fact Of Wiretaps Disclosed
In Alleged Kidnaping Plot

Harrisburg, Pa. — The federal government disclosed Monday it had obtained wiretaps of what it believed to be telephone conversations of one of the defendants in an alleged plot to kidnap a presidential aide.

It was not revealed, however, whose phone was tapped, when the conversations occurred, or if the tap was on the phone of someone not involved in the current case.

"It is our contention that such surveillance was lawful and was necessary and essential to protect against a clear and present danger to the security of the United States of America," the government said in a brief presented by Daniel J. McLaughlin, a Justice Department lawyer.

Clark Wants All Revealed

The disclosure at a federal court hearing came in response to demands by former U.S. attorney general Ramsey Clark that the government reveal all wiretaps involving the Rev. Philip Berrigan and seven other defendants.

Clark, making his first appearance as defense counsel, argued that the government could not pick and choose what wiretaps it would disclose.

Berrigan, currently serving a sentence at a federal prison in Danbury, Conn., for destroying draft board records, and the others were to be arraigned here Tuesday on charges contained in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury April 30.

Superseded Earlier One

That indictment, superseding one handed down Jan. 12, accused the eight of plotting to kidnap Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser, blow up heating tunnels in the nation's capital and destroy draft board records around the country.

Berrigan is accused of masterminding the plot from his jail cell at Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penitentiary prior to his transfer to Danbury.

Appended to the indictment were copies of letters the government claims were transmitted between Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister.

Retire Locomotives

London — England's last three steam locomotives in operation are being retired after 34 years in switching and construction work.

31, of Tarrytown, N.Y. The letters discussed the possibility of seizing Kissinger as a way to force an end to the Vietnam war.

Review Of Records

McLaughlin told U.S. District Judge R. Nixon Herman that a review of the records of the Justice Department "has established that what the government believes are probably telephone conversations of the defendant McAlister have been overheard by the federal government during the course of an electronic surveillance."

He said the surveillance was "expressly authorized by the President, acting through the attorney general."

"The government has an obligation to come forth with every overheard whether it is pertinent to its case or not," Clark said in asking the judge to order a full hearing on what wiretaps were made.

"The government investigated the case massively," Clark said. "It is incredible. That is why we are sure there were lots of buggings. There must have been thousands of bugs."

Judge Herman took the case under advisement.

Dismissal Asked

Defense attorneys also asked the court to dismiss the indictments on grounds that they were based on prejudicial publicity instigated by the government and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

They said if the judge refused to dismiss the indictments he should permit separate trials for all defendants on grounds the letters allegedly exchanged between Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth would prejudice the others.

Censured Ex-Sen. Dodd, 64, Dies

Old Lyme, Conn. (UPI) — Former Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., a prosecutor at the Nuremberg war crimes trials who was later censured by the Senate for financial misconduct, died Monday of an apparent heart attack. He was 64.

The senator was sitting in a chair in his Old Lyme home when he collapsed. His wife, Grace, was at his side when he died.

A solemn requiem mass will be offered Wednesday at St. Thomas the Apostle Roman Catholic Church in West Hartford where the Dodds' six children lived for many years. Burial will be in Pawcatuck.

Dodd was censured in 1967 for allegedly converting $116,000 in testimonial dinner funds to his personal use, disclosures which originated with James Boyd, the senator's chief aide and were publicized by Washington columnists Jack Anderson and the late Drew Pearson.

"Of course, I am sad about it, as I was sad about his troubles," Anderson said when told of Dodd's death. "I got no pleasure out of exposing his wrongdoing in Congress."

One of the highlights of Dodd's career was his being named executive trial counsel at Nuremberg. After 11 grim months of trying the Nazi elite, including Hermann Goering and Rudolph Hess, he called the work of the four-power court "an autopsy on history's most horrible catalogue of human crime."

Only two weeks ago, Dodd said Hess, 76, a deputy to Adolf Hitler who flew to Scotland during the early days of World War II, should be taken from Berlin's Spandau Prison where he is serving a life sentence. Dodd felt Hess should be placed in a mental institution.

Despite his condemnation by Senate colleagues, Dodd, a native of Norwich, who attended Providence College and Yale Law School, remained undaunted. He said he would take his case to the "people who count, the people in Connecticut."

He ran a poor third in a race for re-election with the Rev. Joseph D. Duffey, former national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action and the eventual winner, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., and heir to the Squibb drug fortune, of Greenwich.

A former FBI agent, Dodd was known for his advocacy of gun controls, his opposition to television violence and his crusade for prison reform.

Crop Planting Behind Normal

... 70% Corn Fields Seeded

By The Associated Press
Planting of corn, sorghum and soybeans in Nebraska is slower than normal this year, government crop observers reported Monday.
About 70% of the state's corn acreage is planted, compared with a normal of 87% at this time of year, according to the weekly weather and crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.
Sorghum planting is 25% complete, compared with a normal 55%, and only about 15% of soybeans are in the ground, compared to a normal of 56%.
Farmers in northeast Nebraska made good progress on planting row crops last week, but wet conditions in other eastern areas slowed or halted field operations, the report noted.
Subsoil moisture conditions are adequate to surplus except in a few local areas, but western farmers have been tilling light soils, especially beet fields, to prevent wind erosion, the division said.
Many corn fields are emerging to good stands but a few growers are breaking crusted soil to improve stands and avoid replanting.
Some of the delay in planting sorghum can be attributed to preoccupation with corn planting but soil temperatures are still relatively cool for good sorghum germination.
Wheat remains in good to excellent condition, with some heading reported in southern areas.
Rainfall received throughout Nebraska during the past week included:

Scottsbluff Firm To Get Contract For SS Building

Washington (AP) — The General Services Administration will award a $118,000 contract to C. G. Stenbrecher Construction Co. of Scottsbluff, Neb., on Wednesday for a new Social Security District office building for Scottsbluff, Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said Monday.
Curtis said the firm submitted the lowest of four bids for the building, which will contain 4,122 square feet of office space. The building is to be completed in six months, Curtis said.
The one-story building will be located at 20th and Avenue A

Klemme Appeals To Liberals For Needed U.S. Leadership

Crete —In a commencement address at Doane College Monday, Dr. Randall T. Klemme appealed to liberals to strengthen the center and "for leadership that can look beyond the short term, transient, and often hedonistic goals of the militant minorities and can help us again identify the thrust of our purpose or destiny."
Doane graduated 118 seniors and conferred honorary degrees on Klemme, Dorothy Maynor Rooks of New York City and the Rev. Culver H. Nelson of Phoenix, Ariz.
Dr. Klemme, vice president and corporate economist of Northern Natural Gas Company said his remarks were addressed "to those of us, and those of you, who would be identified as the liberal establishment. Repeatedly discredited by the New Left and the Far

300 At Tech Stage Second Protest Hour

Omaha (AP) — About 300 Tech Junior and Senior High School students boycotted classes for an hour Monday.

School officials said the pupils sat down in a corridor on the fourth floor during the period. They said the students were protesting the School Board's decision not to rehire counselor Eddie Chambers and music teacher Otis Westbrook.

Tech students stayed away from class for an hour Friday in a similar protest. Officials said the Friday walkout involved the entire student body of about 1,600.

Meanwhile the superintendent of the Omaha school system has urged parents of students at technical schools to help bring about an orderly end to the school year.

Supt. Owen Knutzen wrote a letter to the parents after a meeting with school officials Saturday.

General Nelson Disputes Proxmire's B52 Claim

Omaha (AP) — The project manager for the proposed B1 bomber disputed Monday a comment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that the use of a decoy missile could make Strategic Air Command B52s "equal or superior" to the proposed B1.

Maj. Gen. Douglas T. Nelson said the B52 was designed in the late 1940s and its structure isn't intended to withstand the pounding incurred in the low-level flights needed to penetrate radar defenses.

The general, who is assigned to the Air Force Systems Command at Dayton, Ohio, was in Omaha Monday to confer with officials at SAC headquarters. He formerly was SAC Headquarters officer.

Nelson said structural changes costing "well in excess of $1

Old Mill Holds Centennial Interest

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau Friend — The two-cylinder diesel engine that turned the milling wheels that ground out Friend flour for nearly 30 years has been rusting since 1935.

But the 75-foot frame elevator that housed the mill is still there, a landmark of special historical interest this year, Friend's centennial. It stands on the spot where Charles and Willina Friend homesteaded in 1871, founding Friendville with a combination grocery store and post office.

The homestead land was sold for $245 in 1874, when the Friends moved south across what is now U.S. 6 to resettle on land purchased from the Burlington Railroad, site of present-day Friend.

Part of the original land was purchased in 1906 by George and Frank Van Buskirk, who set up the Friend Milling Co. and built the three-story south end of the building. The elevator was added by Peter Stepanek, who bought the operation from the Van Buskirks in 1910 and milled flour 25 years until the depression ran him out of business.

In the intervening years bakeries from all around the region, mostly from Omaha, some from as far away as Minnesota, bought Friend Flour by the boxcar. A higher grade, Pride of Friend, was sold at a higher price, and the really upper-crust bakeries bought Friend Royal, the top grade.

The same two-cylinder engine that ground the flour also drove the machines that ground corn, operated the elevator, and mixed pancake flour, self-rising flour and hog feed.

Bill Rhynolds, who came to Friend in 1920 and worked at the mill as a mechanic and packer until shortly before it closed, recalls that Stepanek employed six or seven men who worked two at a time in 12-hour shifts to keep the wheels turning 24 hours a day. One man packed the flour while the other tended the machinery and mixed the feed, Rhynold says.

"We packed the flour in 48-pound cloth sacks and sewed them by hand," Rhynolds says. "The mill turned out 20 sacks an hour." They were loaded into boxcars on the siding beside the elevator.

Many farmers brought in their wheat and traded it for flour at "something like a 2-to-1 ratio," Rhynolds says. The grain was dumped through grates in the floor and hauled by a chain-and-cup elevator up into the 20,000-bushel bins. From there it passed by conveyor to a 24-hour tempering bin that soaked the hulls loose. It then entered the milling line, a set of four "breaks" or double cylinders with grooves of various sizes.

The first break cracked the hulls. The second removed the hulls and "shorts," or unusable soft flour, and sent them upstairs to a separator which removed them from the flour. The third removed the wheat germ, to be separated for use in hog feed. The fourth and final break ground the flour to the necessary fineness and sent it to the packing area.

Stepanek finally gave up, selling out during hard times to the Kassik Grain Co. of Milligan, which junked the flour machinery and ground feed in the building until about 1947. In 1953 Huston Truck Lines of Friend bought it and used it for 11 years as a feed warehouse.

For the last seven years, however, the old elevator has been unused and unoccupied, dwarfed by the modern Friend Co-Op grain elevator a few hundred feet to the east.

The milling process was a far cry then from what it is now, Rhynolds says. Not only was more of the work done by hand, but because much of the factory was made of hand-made wooden parts, "You just about had to be a millwright to operate a mill in those days. It took quite a carpenter to make all those spouts and chutes for the flour."

Dikes On North Platte Authorized Under Federal Operation Foresight

By The Associated Press
Authority from Washington has been given to U.S. Army Corps of Engineers officials to build dikes on the flooding North Platte River in western Nebraska if it appears the structures will be needed.

Some $250,000 has been made available and more money may be allotted if necessary, an aide to Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said Monday.

The Corps of Engineers feels there is sufficient time to call for bids on construction of the permanent dikes. Work is expected to begin within the next few days.

Likely Candidates

Burl Johnson, assistant state civil defense director, said two likely candidates for the dikes are Scottsbluff and Bridgeport, where flooding is already occurring.

Officials of both towns are preparing requests for Corps of Engineers assistance under the federal government's Operation Foresight, the first step necessary to put the program into operation, Johnson said.

While the situation now appears under control, Johnson said, it could become critical if there is additional heavy rainfall in Nebraska or Wyoming or a heavy snowmelt in Wyoming.

The danger of flooding along the Platte will probably peak in about three weeks, Johnson said, but remains a possibility all summer long.

Johnson said city officials in Scottsbluff have been thinking in terms of a dike perhaps five miles long and three to four feet high, located along the north bank of the Platte between the river and the town.

Bridgeport officials have been thinking about a U-shaped dike protecting the town on the west, north and east sides, which were all under water last week.

Bridge Closed Temporarily

Gothenburg (UPI) — The bridge south of Gothenburg on Highway 47 was closed for a short time Monday morning but by late morning had been reopened to one-way traffic, the State Highway Department said.

The bridge between Interstate 80 and Gothenburg had to be closed temporarily because of high water in the Platte River.

Cop Planting Behind Normal

... 70% Corn Fields Seeded

By The Associated Press
Planting of corn, sorghum and soybeans in Nebraska is slower than normal this year, government crop observers reported Monday.
About 70% of the state's corn acreage is planted, compared with a normal of 87% at this time of year, according to the weekly weather and crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.
Sorghum planting is 25% complete, compared with a normal 55%, and only about 15% of soybeans are in the ground, compared to a normal of 56%.
Farmers in northeast Nebraska made good progress on planting row crops last week, Washington (AP) — The General Services Administration will award a $118,000 contract to C. G. Steinbrecher Construction Co. of Scottsbluff, Neb., on Wednesday for a new Social Security District office building for Scottsbluff, Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said Monday.

Curtis said the firm submitted the lowest of four bids for the building, which will contain 4,122 square feet of office space. The building is to be completed in six months, Curtis said.
The one-story building will be located at 20th and Avenue A.

300 At Tech Stage Second Protest Hour

Omaha (AP) — About 300 Tech Junior and Senior High School students boycotted classes for an hour Monday.

School officials said the pupils sat down in a corridor on the fourth floor during the period. They said the students were protesting the School Board's decision not to hire counselor Eddie Chambers and music teacher Otis Westbrook.

Tech students stayed away from class for an hour Friday in a similar protest. Officials said the Friday walkout involved the entire student body of about 1,000.

Meanwhile the superintendent of the Omaha school system has urged parents of students at technical schools to help bring about an orderly end to the school year.

Supt. Owen Knutzen wrote a letter to the parents after a meeting with school officials Saturday.

General Nelson Disputes Proxmire's B52 Claim

Omaha (AP) — The project manager for the proposed B1 bomber disputed Monday a comment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that the use of a decoy missile could make Strategic Air Command B52s "equal or superior" to the proposed B1.

Maj. Gen. Douglas T. Nelson said the B52 was designed in the late 1940s and its structure isn't intended to withstand the pounding incurred in the low-level flights needed to penetrate radar defenses.

The general, who is assigned to the Air Force Systems Command at Dayton, Ohio, was in Omaha Monday to confer with officials at SAC headquarters. He formerly was SAC Headquarters officer.

Nelson said structural changes costing "well in excess of $1

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Not even the people of England or all of Europe, much less the American people, will wake up any morning this week and find their lives changed as a result of British and French agreement on the former's entry into the European Common Market. But the agreement is an historic development that could change the course of history in the years ahead.

It should be noted, too, that the agreement between French President Georges Pompidou and England's Prime Minister Edward Heath does not represent an accomplished fact. There are a number of details yet to be worked out before British membership in the market is an accomplished fact.

The agreement arrived at between the two ministers makes such membership a likely prospect but the British people and Parliament are greatly divided on the subject and could still substantially delay the final act. Speculation, however, will now center on British membership.

It has been pointed out that Pompidou and Heath have agreed that the market represents a confederation rather than a federation of nations. Thus, it is more of a loosely bound group of nations, each of them maintaining its own sovereignty.

But you have to wonder, especially in considering that a number of other nations are likely to follow Britain into the market, if the organization will not move in time more toward a stronger federation.

Indeed, this is exactly the basis of the opposition to the move among the British people. They seriously fear the loss of British autonomy, even though autonomy is coming to mean less and less these days. This area of concern is one in which the United States would have substantial interest.

In defense alone, a unified Western Europe would have a big impact upon the U.S. and the rest of the world. The world now is divided between East and West, politically speaking, with Russia at the helm of the East and the U.S. occupying the leadership role for the West.

If Europe were to emerge strong and independent of either Russia or the U.S., a third force would obviously be on the scene. This could mean difficulties for either Russia or the U.S. but it would seem that such a development might well complement trends in this country.

As the recent debate in our Congress demonstrated, there is a growing pressure for a new approach to foreign affairs on the part of the U.S. government. It stems mainly from the political aftermath of Vietnam but how it comes into being is not so important as its being here.

The old guard in this nation is coming to be characterized as advocates of the foreign policy approach of our present and the preceding four presidents of the nation. This policy is founded in the belief that a basic conflict exists between Russia and the U.S. and the only answer to it is, at best, a military standoff between the two.

The policy involves the international gameship of strategic influence in the various parts of the world such as Asia, Africa, India and the Middle East.

If this policy of conflict or confrontation between the U.S. and Russia is to change, emergence of Western Europe as a third and independent force in the world will hasten the day. This is obvious since Western Europe remains the so-called free world's first line of defense, despite all the other trouble spots in the world.

For Russia, a strong and independent Western Europe would seem to compound her difficulties. She would then have to maintain an even stronger hold on her Eastern European satellite nations because of the new third force on the doorstep of those nations.

Thus, British entry into the Common Market would seem to be a development in line with certain trends in this nation. The U.S., however, is a long way from developing any real concept of what its future foreign policy might be.

This, it seems, is something that we clearly need to do. Such a foreign policy reassessment is called for on the strength of our own self-interest, much less in consideration of the agreement reached between Heath and Pompidou.

Middle Americans Furious Over Taxes

Tax Rebellion — Middle-income Americans have their dander up over taxes. They are angry over stories of oil companies which pay few taxes and millionaires who pay none. This has fomented a smoldering tax rebellion, which is building up in the split-level homes of middle America. For some, federal, state and local taxes seem almost confiscatory. The rumblings from the home front have spurred the move for an overhaul of the nation's tax structure. To save their tax privileges, the special interests have mounted an intense pressure campaign upon Congress. Will they keep their tax blessings or will Americans get more equitable taxes? A classic confrontation is shaping up between the special interests that finance election campaigns and the voters who cast the final ballots.

Headlines and Footnotes — The Central Intelligence Agency is secretly training counterinsurgency forces in Jordan. . . . Some space scientists believe the rilles on the moon might be underground lava tubes, which could be converted into permanent lunar bases. . . . The National Geographic Society is the last holdover from the B'wana school of journalism. It's expense account forms includes the category, "Gifts to Natives." . . . Art Buchwald's former partner, Robert Yoakum, has come out with his own column of political satire.

Double Standard — The University of Arizona has a double standard — one for activists, another for athletes.

Last January, eight student leaders, including then student president Mark Ginsberg, were charged with felonious rioting after a scuffle. Yet no felony complaints were lodged against Bill McKinley, co-captain of the 1970 football team, who recently admitted stealing about $200 worth of candy, cigarettes and other items from the university stadium.

Printing Crisis — The federal government, on top of all its other problems, is in the midst of a printing crisis. It took seven months, for example, for the Federal Communications Commission to get its 1970 fiscal report printed up. The problem: The Government Printing Office, apparently to satisfy powerful congressmen, is having the work done by private firms from Texas to Massachusetts.

Postal Politics — Abraham Lincoln, who has received top billing on U.S. stamps for more than a century, is a victim of the southern strategy. The old five-cent postal card with his portrait has been replaced by a new six-cent card picturing Paul Revere. And the 25-cent Lincoln international stamp is being dropped entirely. The Nixon administration's decision to expunge Lincoln from the mails may seem curious, since he is the patron saint of the Republican party. But the great rail splitter actually got the axe from Postmaster General Winton Blount, who is a southerner first and a Republican second. In Blount's native Alabama, where he's preparing to run for the Senate in 1972, Lincoln is still a loser.

Seeking Better Relations

Removing racial membership barriers from the constitution or charters of national fraternal organizations is a slow process. There is a lot of stuffy traditionalism—and downright bigotry—involved. The process is further complicated by the mechanics of changing the ground rules, the time-consuming need for local chapter ratification of revisions approved at national conventions.

A number of college social fraternities found that it was almost a matter of survival a few years ago that "white only" references be stricken from their charters. It was with some reluctance at first that many of them did so, but there is general acceptance now of the fact that such which clauses were reprehensible anachronisms.

It would have been a better thing had national fraternal organizations, such as the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, holding membership restrictions followed the lead of college fraternities years ago, but they didn't. It is commendable, however, that the Lincoln Elks lodge has finally gone on record as recommending that the "white only" clause be dropped from the Elks constitution and will work toward that end at the order's next national convention.

The Lincoln lodge through the years has contributed much to the community welfare and is now facing up to another responsibility.

But if the Elks' recommendation is a step forward in better race relations in Lincoln, the "we'll show 'em" attitude of a few youthful hoodlums, both black and white, certainly is not.

Lincoln Police last month acted quickly in nipping in the bud a potential confrontation between whites and blacks at Belmont Park that could have had tragic implications. Firearms and homemade weapons were confiscated and a police official observed that several homicides might have resulted. It would seem that the Lincoln youths involved could find a better way to assert their emerging manhood.

Political Terrorism Continues

Violence continues to be a large part of international events, serving to warn all nations of the fact that political dissent cannot be allowed to include lawlessness. In Turkey, an Israel diplomat was killed by a leftist political group and Argentina terrorists have kidnapped the honorary British consul there.

Both men have been the victims of so-called revolutionaries. Perhaps such acts are a part of revolutionary movements but if they are, then it behooves a nation to make sure that revolutions are not a part of their national scene.

We would hope that even a revolutionary movement might exist without such tactics as kidnapping and murder but such does not seem to be the case. When such measures are used, the revolutionary becomes little more than a common criminal and the cause he might espouse fades into a meaningless oblivion.

To date, we have been fortunate in this

New Harmony Between France And Britain
Example Of Hopeful Trend To Better World

WASHINGTON—In the last few days, the French have finally accepted the idea of Britain's joining Europe, the Chinese have turned a more genial face to the outside world, the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed on a new formula for discussing the $200 billion a year arms race, the moderates in Israel and the Arab states have been making some progress toward peace, and even President Nixon and Lyndon Johnson have been meeting together in Texas and agreeing that, maybe after all, the course of history is more important than anything else.

Well, there is a lot of cynicism here about all this, but something interesting and significant seems to be happening in the world. The course of history in the largest sense is much more hopeful than the newspaper headlines. Despite all the arguments between the political parties, the races, and the nations, the elemental facts of life seem to be challenging and influencing the actions of all nations, at least in the advanced capitals of the world.

President Nixon, one of the original ideological anti-communist warriors, is now concentrating on an accommodation with Moscow and Peking and following Keynesian economic policies he used to denounce. President Georges Pompidou in Paris is bringing Britain into the European Common Market on terms President Charles de Gaulle denounced. Chancellor Willy Brandt in West Germany is seeking an accommodation with Moscow and the communist nations of Eastern Europe. President Anwar el-Sadat in Cairo is risking his political life for an accommodation with Israel, and the elders of the Democratic party in the United States are rallying to support Nixon against the nationalistic military policies of their own majority leader in the Senate.

So underneath all the contentions of local and national politics, which divide men, it would seem there are elemental forces working in the world today that are affecting all peoples and compelling compromise and revision. China is coming out of isolation for practical reasons. She does not wish to stand aside while the post-Vietnam world is settled by the other major powers. Similarly, Europe is uniting for practical purposes. It cannot compete with the new industrial, military and political worlds of Russia and the United States unless it unites and integrates its policies, its politics and economics.

All this clearly is very tentative. The rhetoric of the past still dominates politics everywhere, but very definitely, if very slowly, the fear of war and of monetary and economic anarchy are breaking down the old local, regional, and even national barriers, and bringing the concept of interdependence into the politics of the world.

The reconciliation of Britain and France is only the latest illustration of the point. In the first days after the last world war, even De Gaulle understood the unifying forces operating in the world.

"Who can restore the balance between the two New Worlds, if not the Old World?" he asked as early as July 28, 1946, in a speech at Bar-le-Duc. "Ancient Europe, which for so many centuries has guided the universe, is in a position to provide the necessary element of moderation and understanding in the heart of a world that is tending to split in half. . . . Before a harmony of this sort can be achieved, there will first have to be an understanding between London and Paris."

Later on, of course, he changed, and his doctrines of nationalism and prestige led him to veto Britain in the Common Market. But the forces of life are more enduring than the lives and prestige of even great men, and here is Pompidou taking a wholly different course.

It will be a long time before the principle of interdependence is dominant in world or Brevity in letters is required but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter must be edited out of letters. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

His Own Choice

Lincoln, Neb.
In response to Lonnie Pierson's letter concerning the need for approval of the motorcycle helmet bill, LB1141, I would like to say a few words. As an N.U. motorcycle operator, I feel that by my opinion speaks for the majority of my fellow cyclists.

A helmet is a very fine piece of safety equipment, but its use should be left up to the individual. I make it a habit to wear mine enroute to campus and back, but there are a number of times I leave it home. A helmet is a big inconvenience when going shopping or for a ride in the park with a friend.

Last month I spilled my bike on some railroad tracks on Y Street, but suffered only a few cuts and scratches — most of them on the forehead of my helmet! I'm very glad I was wearing my "lid" that day, but if I hadn't, I wouldn't have hurt anyone but myself. It may sound ridiculous, but I think I should have the right to smash my skull if I see fit. Helmets help save lives, but they should not be forced on a person against his will.

Seatbelts help save lives, too, but very few people wear them regularly, or at all. How many times have you heard: "I'm only going to the store and back. I won't need to wear them. Be sides, they're so constricting and uncomfortable." Helmets in 80-degree heat are not too comfortable, either. Helmets also restrict one's hearing to a large degree. If you want to know what it feels like to have your head pulled off, try wearing a helmet with a face-shield at 60 mph, and then turn your head to the side for a split second.

The high incidence of motorcycle deaths has scared me, too, but I don't think the mandatory use of helmets is the answer. How about a mandatory "lights on" bill, so that the many unalert drivers on the road can see me better? Or maybe a revolving light a la firetruck to be used on cycles in traffic? Or bigger taillights and turn signals on motorcycles?

Until I buy a car or get killed by a car, I'll continue to wear my helmet most of the time, and keep my lights on during the day, but I'd hate to see the day when I've got to do this or be punished.

A woman of our acquaintance is well known for her vital interest in many causes — mental retardation, alcoholism, peace, prevention of cruelty to children and animals, equal opportunities and ecology.

"When I feel myself getting radical on some particular subject," she confessed, "I sit down, close my eyes and visualize that my son has just handed me a copy of The Lincoln Star. There in black headlines is the news that my cause has just taken a giant step forward through the efforts of someone else. Sometimes my cause has even been abolished by a total breakthrough. In this way, I am able to be as honest as possible about my own reaction to this news."

"At times my heart leaps with joy but I must say that at other times there is a stab of jealousy, a pang of loss or a flare of outright hostility. Then I know whether my motive is to accomplish the greatest good or whether I seek a victory over some old adversary or might just like to be on a win-

Bikes, Cars

Omaha, Neb.

Concerning the letter from Jack Stout, who seems to think that the streets should be turned over to bicycle riders, the laws covering the riding of bicycles in the street are not only meant to provide for the orderly flow of traffic on busy streets; they were designed to protect the rider. A cyclist is no match for a 3,000-pound car.

One of the major bicycle problems is along Vine Street close to Culler Junior High. Prior to 8:00 a.m., one lane is used by bicycles and people trying to get to work must creep along in the center lane.

I can assure Mr. Stout that these cyclists are not trying to preserve our air by riding their bikes. This is their only means of transportation until they're old enough to buy a car.

I am disappointed in the leadership of our elected officials regarding the motorcycle helmet law. We hear complaints about our young people dying in Vietnam, and right here in Nebraska we have the chance to save the lives of some of the same young people now.

We can bet that if one of these men's son or daughter was next on the list of fatalities, he would find a way to effect this law very quickly.

I remarked that I didn't know of any organization or foundation devoted to psoriasis, that baffling, prevalent, annoying, although not deadly, skin disease.

Because it wasn't deadly, I said, the disease apparently had not inspired any group dedicated to combatting it.

In this I was wrong — and I'm glad to find it out. There is such a group, founded in Portland, Ore., in 1966. This last fall it began a drive to organize chapters all over the country.

The group — National Psoriasis Foundation — itself calls psoriasis "the orphan disease," because it has not loomed as large in the field of medical research as many other diseases have. The foundation uses as a sort of slogan the phrase, "The 'P' is silent—as are its victims."

I can't help agreeing that there is room for such an organization, because a vast number of folks are troubled with psoriasis, sometimes even being hospitalized because of it. The estimated figure is that 3 million have it in the United States, and 150,000 new cases appear each year. That's a lot of people, and the total amount of misery is, truly, enormous.

Copies I have seen of a bi-monthly publication put out by the foundation are excellent. The foundation also has a distinguished group of dermatologists, nearly a score of them from all over the country, on its advisory board.

Psoriasis often looks like some dreadful or repulsive disease (which, actually, it isn't) so appearance alone is enough to make it a serious matter for people, but it can (not always will, though) bring with it other problems: chills and fever, arthritis, loss of hair, invasion of the nails, cracked skin, scaling of dried skin. And itching. How it can, at times, itch.

And there is no sure cure for it — at least, none that is reliable and also safe. Drugs that can stop it are too toxic to use, and other treatments are a "maybe" proposition. Maybe they work, maybe they don't do anything. It's an unpredictable ailment. Which, of course, I've said before in this column.

I get enough inquiries about it to convince me that some readers would be interested in getting the Psoriasis Foundation's publication, both to learn more about the diseases and, if they are able, to contribute to funds for further research.

The foundation's literature says there is no membership fee, and anyone can get a free copy of the Psoriasis Bulletin by writing to National Psoriasis Foundation, Suite 250, 6415 S.W. Canyon Court, Portland, Ore. 97221.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it okay for a person with diabetes to eat canned soups and vegetables, also puddings? I said it's wrong but my sister says it is all right. Also drinking beer.—J.M.

No reason to avoid canned soups and vegetables. Puddings, however, would contain sugar, hence should not be eaten. As to beer, it adds lots of calories, and the person with diabetes has to keep total calorie intake within limits. Therefore every glass of beer means more useful food has to be sacrificed.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Not even the people of England or all of Europe, much less the American people, will wake up any morning this week and find their lives changed as a result of British and French agreement on the former's entry into the European Common Market. But the agreement is an historic development that could change the course of history in the years ahead.

It should be noted, too, that the agreement between French President Georges Pompidou and England's Prime Minister Edward Heath does not represent an accomplished fact. There are a number of details yet to be worked out before British membership in the market is an accomplished fact.

The agreement arrived at between the two ministers makes such membership a likely prospect but the British people and Parliament are greatly divided on the subject and could still substantially delay the final act. Speculation, however, will now center on British membership.

It has been pointed out that Pompidou and Heath have agreed that the market represents a confederation rather than a federation of nations. Thus, it is more of a loosely bound group of nations, each of them maintaining its own sovereignty.

But you have to wonder, especially in considering that a number of other nations are likely to follow Britain into the market, if the organization will not move in time more toward a stronger federation.

Indeed, this is exactly the basis of the opposition to the move among the British people. They seriously fear the loss of British autonomy, even though autonomy is coming to mean less and less these days. This area of concern is one in which the United States would have substantial interest.

In defense alone, a unified Western Europe would have a big impact upon the U.S. and the rest of the world. The world now is divided between East and West, politically speaking, with Russia at the helm of the East and the U.S. occupying the leadership role for the West.

If Europe were to emerge strong and independent of either Russia or the U.S., a third force would obviously be on the scene. This could mean difficulties for either Russia or the U.S. but it would seem that such a development might well complement trends in this country.

As the recent debate in our Congress demonstrated, there is a growing pressure for a new approach to foreign affairs on the part of the U.S. government. It stems mainly from the political aftermath of Vietnam but how it comes into being is not so important as its being here.

The old guard in this nation is coming to be characterized as advocates of the foreign policy approach of our present and the preceding four presidents of the nation. This policy is founded in the belief that a basic conflict exists between Russia and the U.S. and the only answer to it is, at best, a military standoff between the two.

The policy involves the international gameship of strategic influence in the various parts of the world such as Asia, Africa, India and the Middle East.

If this policy of conflict or confrontation between the U.S. and Russia is to change, emergence of Western Europe as a third and independent force in the world will hasten the day. This is obvious since Western Europe remains the so-called free world's first line of defense, despite all the other trouble spots in the world.

For Russia, a strong and independent Western Europe would seem to compound her difficulties. She would then have to maintain an even stronger hold on her Eastern European satellite nations because of the new third force on the doorstep of those nations.

Thus, British entry into the Common Market would seem to be a development in line with certain trends in this nation. The U.S., however, is a long way from developing any real concept of what its future foreign policy might be.

This, it seems, is something that we clearly need to do. Such a foreign policy reassessment is called for on the strength of our own self-interest, much less in consideration of the agreement reached between Heath and Pompidou.

Middle Americans Furious Over Taxes

Tax Rebellion — Middle-income Americans have their dander up over taxes. They are angry over stories of oil companies which pay few taxes and millionaires who pay none. This has fomented a smoldering tax rebellion, which is building up in the split-level homes of middle America. For some, federal, state and local taxes seem almost confiscatory. The rumblings from the home front have spurred the move for an overhaul of the nation's tax structure. To save their tax privileges, the special interests have mounted an intense pressure campaign upon Congress. Will they keep their tax blessings or will Americans get more equitable taxes? A classic confrontation is shaping up between the special interests that finance election campaigns and the voters who cast the final ballots.

Headlines and Footnotes — The Central Intelligence Agency is secretly training counterinsurgency forces in Jordan. Some space scientists believe the rilles on the moon might be underground lava tubes, which could be converted into permanent lunar bases. The National Geographic Society is the last holdover from the B'wana school of journalism. It's expense account forms includes the category, "Gifts to Natives." Art Buchwald's former partner, Robert Yoakum, has come out with his own column of political satire.

Double Standard — The University of Arizona has a double standard — one for activists, another for athletes.

Last January, eight student leaders, including then student president Mark Ginsberg, were charged with felonious rioting after a scuffle. Yet no felony complaints were lodged against Bill McKinley, co-captain of the 1970 football team, who recently admitted stealing about $200 worth of candy, cigarettes and other items from the university stadium.

Printing Crisis — The federal government, on top of all its other problems, is in the midst of a printing crisis. It took seven months, for example, for the Federal Communications Commission to get its 1970 fiscal report printed up. The problem: The Government Printing Office, apparently to satisfy powerful congressmen, is having the work done by private firms from Texas to Massachusetts.

Postal Politics — Abraham Lincoln, who has received top billing on U.S. stamps for more than a century, is a victim of the southern strategy. The old five-cent postal card with his portrait has been replaced by a new six-cent card picturing Paul Revere. And the 25-cent Lincoln international stamp is being dropped entirely. The Nixon administration's decision to expunge Lincoln from the mails may seem curious, since he is the patron saint of the Republican party. But the great rail splitter actually got the axe from Postmaster General Winton Blount, who is a southerner first and a Republican second. In Blount's native Alabama, where he's preparing to run for the Senate in 1972, Lincoln is still a loser.

Seeking Better Relations

Removing racial membership barriers from the constitution or charters of national fraternal organizations is a slow process. There is a lot of stuffy traditionalism—and downright bigotry—involved. The process is further complicated by the mechanics of changing the ground rules, the time-consuming need for local chapter ratification of revisions approved at national conventions.

A number of college social fraternities found that it was almost a matter of survival a few years ago that "white only" references be stricken from their charters. It was with some reluctance at first that many of them did so, but there is general acceptance now of the fact that such which clauses were reprehensible anachronisms.

It would have been a better thing had national fraternal organizations, such as the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, holding membership restrictions followed the lead of college fraternities years ago, but they didn't. It is commendable, however, that the Lincoln Elks lodge has finally gone on record as recommending that the "white only" clause be dropped from the Elks constitution and will work toward that end at the order's next national convention.

The Lincoln lodge through the years has contributed much to the community welfare and is now facing up to another responsibility.

But if the Elks' recommendation is a step forward in better race relations in Lincoln, the "we'll show 'em" attitude of a few youthful hoodlums, both black and white, certainly is not.

Lincoln Police last month acted quickly in nipping in the bud a potential confrontation between whites and blacks at Belmont Park that could have had tragic implications. Firearms and homemade weapons were confiscated and a police official observed that several homicides might have resulted. # Court To Rule On Required Amish Attendance Of School

(C) Washington Star
Washington — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to rule on the power of states to require Amish teen-agers to go to public high school.

Wisconsin officials challenged a decision by the state Supreme Court on Jan. 8 in favor of the Amish — the first ruling in any state to give Amish youngsters an exemption to compulsory school attendance laws.

The Amish people believe it is a violation of their religion to require the children to participate in a "worldly educational environment," and they contend such an environment exists in public high schools.

The test case grew out of the fining of three fathers in the rural Wisconsin town of New Glarus for refusing to let their teen-age children attend public high schools.

The Amish live in 19 states. Outside of Wisconsin, Amish parents have been prosecuted for refusing to send their children to public high school in Virginia and six other states.

The constitutional challenge to compulsory attendance in public schools had been taken to the Supreme Court once before in 1967. The court said then it had no jurisdiction to rule.

In other brief orders, the court took these actions:

—Political funds. It agreed to review the constitutionality of the federal law which makes it a crime for labor unions to contribute money to political candidates.

The challenge was raised by a St. Louis local of the Pipefitters Union and three of its officers, convicted of violating the law after making contributions to a union political fund to Democratic committees and candidates in 1964, 1965 and 1966.

—Dossiers. Dealing with a Seattle woman's appeal, the justices declined to decide whether a person has a constitutional right to challenge critical data about him in an official government file.

Mrs. Catherine Tarver told the court she had been denied a hearing by Oregon welfare officials on her demand that adverse comments reflecting on her role as a mother be erased from their files. The criticism was false, she said, and she cited a juvenile court ruling permitting her to keep her children as proof.

The adverse report could be disseminated to other public agencies, and thus should be destroyed or at least corrected, she said.

—Left standing the conviction of former New York Democratic leader Carmine G. De Sapio on charges of bribery and extortion. He faces a two-year prison term and fines for $4,500.

—Refused to consider request for a new trial for John (Sonny) Franzese, New York Mafia figure convicted of planning a series of bank robberies and sentenced to 50 years in prison.

—Agreed to decide whether a woman seeking welfare for her children after the husband has left the home may be required to wait for six months to get on the rolls.

—Refused to rule on the test of the federal government's power to permit Mexican and Canadian laborers to enter the country temporarily to work.

'Po' Affects Memory, Smokers Say

(C) Washington Star
Washington — Young people who have smoked marijuana say it affects the memory.

Sometimes, they say, memories that have been buried for years will float into the mind. At other times, a person telling a complex anecdote will forget what he's saying if something else captures his attention.

Until now, such information on the effects of marijuana, including how it alters the memory or produces a euphoric, ruminative mood has largely come from the subjective impressions of smokers.

But a team of research psychiatrists is working here in the hope of increasing the scientific data about the effects of marijuana on smokers. Last summer they began setting up an approved research program which would involve dispensing marijuana to some volunteers and then giving them a variety of tests.

"There's been a little scientific research done," Dr. Mark Galanter explained, "but very little done with people."

Gallander is a 29-year-old psychiatrist, a graduate of the Albert Einstein Medical School of Yeshiva University, and at present a clinical associate with the National Institute of Mental Health.

With the backing of some fellow psychiatrists and the approval of the Narcotics and Drug Abuse Office of the Food and Drug Administration and the institute, he has set up a laboratory program to study the effects of marijuana on a person's memory, motivation, continuous work functioning and some aspects of the metabolism.

"We're testing in four major areas where there just aren't any controlled studies yet," he said. "First of all, we're trying to discover if certain ingredients in marijuana affect the memory — immediate memory and short-term memory."

Many Firms Keep In Touch With Retirees

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Peterson is on vacation. During his absence his column will be written by author and publisher Henry Schmidt.)

By HENRY SCHMIDT

Many corporations keep in touch with former employees in one way or another. The most welcome mail a retiree receives from his former employer, is, of course, his monthly pension check. But second to that is the news of his former co-workers. So, many companies have round robin letters or small newspapers to help them keep in touch and to hear the progress of their former employing company.

One company recently invited former employees to write in to tell their old associates about their new life and activities. They told about trips they take, skills they have used, or new ones learned, their hobbies and new interests.

A random sampling of these reports clearly shows that retirement is largely what you make of it. But whatever your bent, whether it's travel, or community service or a second career, their words seem to voice one common chord: "Stay busy, help others and you'll be happy."

Arts And Services

"I've taken up art, oils, water colors and ink sketching. Have had two semesters at our local Museum of Art."

"I have come in contact with several groups of delinquent boys, and I'm trying to put them on a better understanding of a cleaner life."

"Having taken in a homeless girl at the age of three, at time of my retirement, I have not had much time for outside activities."

"I belong to a men's choral group and rehearse every Sunday night. We get calls to sing at church and other places."

"My wife and I have served for the past two years on our local college drive for funds to aid young folks further their education."

Second Careerists

"I keep about 200 laying chickens, have a small garden, fruit and pecan trees."

"My experience in processing bread and cakes helped me get a job with the Board of Health as supervisor of food inspection."

"To keep active, I build boats. Purchased a kit outfit, assembled the boat and sold it for a nice profit. There's a ready market here in California for all that I can complete."

"Developed and had copyrighted an accounting system for small businesses and have sufficient accounts to keep me occupied and happy."

Travel Minded

"Had a wonderful trip to California. Stopped in Utah and saw a rodeo. Was asked to judge, but 116 degrees was too hot so I refused."

"I've made one trip to Mexico, one to the Caribbean and have spent three winters in Florida. It's a great life."

Philosophy Of Retirement

"Keep busy. If your hobbies do not keep you busy enough, try to find employment."

"Keep your interest in human beings and don't feel sorry for yourself. Be grateful for what you have."

"Live within your income and make new friends. Try to do what's pleasing to you and your family."

Belker Backs Bayh For President

By United Press International
The vice chairman of the Nebraska Democratic Party and chairman of Gov. J. J. Exon's successful campaign announced Monday his support of U.S. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., for the 1972 nomination for president.

Loren B. Belker of Lincoln made the announcement in a statement, saying the decision to back Bayh resulted from talks with nearly all of the party's presidential hopefuls.

"Over the past 24 months I have had an opportunity to meet and speak with virtually all of the Democrats who are being prominently mentioned as candidates," he said.

And while "I have a great deal of admiration" for all of them, Bayh "in my opinion stands head and shoulders above the rest."

The Indiana senator "has shown the kind of moral courage that I feel is necessary in the White House," Belker said.

An example of his "strong moral beliefs," he said, is the stand the lawmaker has taken in the case of Lt. William Calley, convicted for his actions in the My Lai incident.

"While overwhelming public sentiment was sympathetic to Lieutenant Calley, Senator Bayh spoke about the moral issues involved and pointed out that in a democracy, we cannot lightly dismiss through sympathy the slaughter of helpless women and children," Belker said.

Belker said in addition to his statement, letters of his intent to back Bayh have been sent out to some 500 prominent Nebraska Democratic leaders.

Council Rescinds OK Of City Department Heads

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer
In an about-face move the City Council Monday rescinded its approval of city department head appointments on a vote of 6-1.

Only last week the council in a resolution unanimously approved Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's appointment of his directors to another four-year term.

Council members, with Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis dissenting, said they wanted more time to think about the appointments and a chance to meet with each director first before okaying his continuation as a director.

Individual Basis
The council also approved a motion stating that each director should be submitted to the council for ratification on an individual basis rather than lumped together in one resolution. Voting against the motion were Mrs. Boosalis and Steve Cook.

Schwartzkopf said in a prepared statement afterward

that he found the City Council's decision "irregular and disappointing."

"During the past four years, I have had close contact with each director and find each to be loyal, dedicated and professionally knowledgeable," the mayor said.

To Submit Names
He said he would immediately submit each director's name for individual approval and publicly state his reasons why each should be reinstated.

Schwartzkopf said he urged the council to act at on the appointments at its next regular council meeting.

"Since each director is a highly professional individual, job security should not needlessly be held over their heads," the Mayor said.

The department heads will continue serving as acting directors.

Affected by the decision are Planning Director Doug Brogren, Public Works Director Bob Obering, Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker, Personnel

Director Walter Mitchell, Finance Director James Mallon and Parks and Recreation Director Don Smith.

Wood Not Included
The appointment of Dick Wood as city attorney was not included in the vote to rescind ratifying the appointments. Wood is appointed jointly by the council and mayor for a two-year term.

Whether any of the council members are dissatisfied with any particular director was not specifically made known.

Councilman Merle Hale, who asked that the appointments be reconsidered, said he wanted more time to think about the appointments.

"I think we missed the boat in not asking for time for consideration," he said.

Havelock High-Rise Concept Approved

... COUNCIL ACTION IS UNANIMOUS

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer
The City Council Monday gave its unanimous approval to the concept of a public housing project for the elderly in Havelock.

Lincoln Housing Authority Chairman Kenneth King appeared before the council requesting approval in concept for a special permit to allow the high-rise building to be constructed.

The council must again act on detailed drawing of the proposed high-rise at a later date.

Immediate Action
King said he needed council action now on the site, located in the block bounded by Morrill, Ballard, 61st and 60th. to forward the proposal to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office in Omaha.

He said the Housing Authority is trying to beat a June 10 deadline to get funds for the project.

Design for the high-rise, possibly ten stories, would not be known until after that date, King explained, because the project is to be built under the turnkey method.

He said that although he disapproves of the turnkey approach, "this is where the money is."

Submit Proposals
Under the turnkey method, interested developers must submit designs as part of their proposal for the Housing Authority to consider. The successful developer then must build the high-rise, which upon completion would be turned over to the Housing Authority.

Senior citizens at the meeting asked that they be brought into the planning process for the building.

King said that although the developer is responsible for designing the building, he could not see any objection to the senior citizens participating in the review stage of proposals submitted.

The council also held a public hearing on request by Duane Larson for a change of zone from A-1 Single Family to A-2 on property east of 70th and south of Wellington Greens and a community unit plan to increase the allowable density under A-1 from 67 to 81 units.

Patio Houses
Larson said he wants to build patio houses, which would have a zero lot line and share an open area to the rear—every two garages abouting—and townhouses in the area.

Higher density, he contended, has become necessary to keep homes within the price range which the average family can afford.

He said that if the increase in density in the community unit plan is allowed, the cost of homes could be reduced by as much as $4,000.

The change in density in the community unit plan apparently involves a question of policy in computing the density.

Larson is asking that he be allowed to compute the density without subtracting 20% of the 17-acre tract for streets, which is presently required if streets are not shown in the plan.

As an alternative, he is requesting a change of zone to increase the density.

Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis noted that the purpose of the community unit plan is not to allow increases in density over the standard development procedure, which is why the 20% subtraction is made.

Gerry Dolson, representing the Citizens for City Planning, appeared in opposition to the change of zone proposal, saying that the resulting increased density would be detrimental to the area.

Such a change, Dolson contended, could result in a misuse of land and cause additional problems in traffic and school overcrowding.

He also appeared in opposition to a proposed change of zone from A-1 Single Family to G Local Business on property on east side of Lyncrest Dr. between O St. and Eastridge Dr. to allow construction of a fabric supermarket.

Other actions:
Resolutions
—Approved removal requirement for dedication of right-of-way in connection with a subdivision permit at 52nd and A St.
Ordinances, First Reading
—Introduced creation of sewer district in area south of O St. from Beechwood Dr. to 84th

Milder Found Guilty Of Tax Evasion

Omaha (UPI) — A federal jury in Omaha Monday night found Edward E. Milder guilty of not paying income tax on $99,000 from the Milder Oil Co. of Omaha from 1963-65.

A jury of eight men and four women got the case Monday morning after a final argument presented by U.S. Asst. Dist. Atty. Robert Becker.

Becker told the jury that the evidence showed the $150,000 Milder testified he kept in a little green box was just part of $240,000 taken over a period of years from the company.

Defense attorney Martin Cannon, in closing arguments, said the money Milder took could not be regarded as income since he did not make use of it but kept it in a small box in the office.

Judge Richard Robinson deferred sentencing until next month.

Omaha Major Crimes In '70 Totaled 11,962

Omaha (UPI) — The City of Omaha has the seventh lowest crime rate of 29 cities in the United States with populations of 250,000 to 500,000 persons.

Police Chief Richard Andersen said figures were compiled by the Police Department's research and planning unit. The cities are listed on the FBI's annual report.

During 1970, Andersen said there were 11,962 major crimes in Omaha, or 3,444 crimes per 100,000 population. He noted the arrest rate in all crime areas had increased.

Ahead of Omaha in the survey with less crime were El Paso, Tex.; Jersey City, N.J.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; San Jose, Calif.; Tucson, Ariz.; and Norfolk, Va. The most dangerous of the cities in the 250,000 to 500,000 population class was Newark.

New York (UPI) — It was the 88th anniversary of the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge Monday and to mark the occasion Brooklyn Borough President Sebastian Leone and Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton led marches from their respective ends of the 1,595-foot bridge to a meeting in the middle. The bridge over the East River, begun in 1869 and completed in 1883, was designed by John A. Roebling and erected under the direction of his son, Washington Roebling.

Bug Repellant Candle Starts Fire In Closet

A fire at the Clarence Frye residence, 1731 Dewese, late Monday night resulted in "considerable" damage to a closet and its contents and heavy smoke damage to the rest of the house, according to district fire chief, Melvin Keller.

Keller said the fire was started by a bug repellant candle which had been placed in the closet by Frye's 12-year-old daughter, Marcia. The candle apparently ignited some combustible material around it and spread throughout the closet.

Keller said Frye's niece, Judy Grube, who was in the bedroom opposite the back wall of the closet turned in the alarm after she felt the heat and smelled the smoke.

The fire was contained to the closet area, Keller said.

Council Rescinds OK Of City Department Heads

By TOM EKVAL
Star Staff Writer

In an about-face move the City Council Monday rescinded its approval of city department head appointments on a vote of 6-1.

Only last week the council in a resolution unanimously approved Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's appointment of his directors to another four-year term.

Council members, with Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis dissenting, said they wanted more time to think about the appointments and a chance to meet with each director first before okaying his continuation as a director.

Individual Basis

The council also approved a motion stating that each director should be submitted to the council for ratification on an individual basis rather than a lumped together in one resolution. Voting against the motion were Mrs. Boosalis and Steve Cook.

Schwartzkopf said in a prepared statement afterward

that he found the City Council's decision "irregular and disappointing."

"During the past four years, I have had close contact with each director and find each to be loyal, dedicated and professionally knowledgeable," the mayor said.

To Submit Names

He said he would immediately submit each director's name for individual approval and publicly state his reasons why each should be reinstated.

Schwartzkopf said he urged the council to act at on the appointments at its next regular council meeting.

"Since each director is a highly professional individual, job security should not needlessly be held over their heads," the Mayor said.

The department heads will continue serving as acting directors.

Affected by the decision are Planning Director Doug Brogden, Public Works Director Bob Obering, Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker, Presonnel

Director Walter Mitchell, Finance Director James Mallon and Parks and Recreation Director Don Smith.

Wood Not Included

The appointment of Dick Wood as city attorney was not included in the vote to rescind ratifying the appointments. Wood is appointed jointly by the council and mayor for a two-year term.

Whether any of the council members are dissatisfied with any particular director was not specifically made known.

Councilman Merle Hale, who asked that the appointments be reconsidered, said he wanted more time to think about the appointments.

"I think we missed the boat in not asking for time for consideration," he said.

Attache Injured By Stray Bullet

Athens (UPI) — Maj. Bernard Carre, assistant military attache of the French embassy, was injured seriously under the eye from a stray bullet while he was sunbathing with his family on Marathon Beach 40 miles from the capital, the embassy said Monday. Surgeons were attempting to save Carre's eye.

A U.S. naval communications station is near the beach, and a U.S. embassy spokesman said officials were surprised at the incident. "We are trying to track it down. It can only be a presumption at this stage that it was an American bullet," the spokesman said.

Havelock High-Rise Concept Approved

... COUNCIL ACTION IS UNANIMOUS

By TOM EKVAL
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday gave its unanimous approval to the concept of a public housing project for the elderly in Havelock.

Lincoln Housing Authority Chairman Kenneth King appeared before the council requesting approval in concept for a special permit to allow the high-rise building to be constructed.

The council must again act on detailed drawing of the proposed high-rise at a later date.

Immediate Action

King said he needed council action now on the site, located in the block bounded by Morrill, Ballard, 61st and 60th, to forward the proposal to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) office in Omaha.

He said the Housing Authority is trying to beat a June 10 deadline to get funds for the project.

Design for the high-rise, possibly ten stories, would not be known until after that date, King explained, because the project is to be built under the turnkey method.

He said that although he disapproves of the turnkey approach, "this is where the money is."

Submit Proposals

Under the turnkey method, interested developers must submit designs as part of their proposal for the Housing Authority to consider. The successful developer then must build the high-rise, which upon completion would be turned over to the Housing Authority.

Senior citizens at the meeting asked that they be brought into the planning process for the building.

King said that although the developer is responsible for designing the building, he could not see any objection to the senior citizens participating in the review stage of proposals submitted.

The council also held a public hearing on request by Duane Larson for a change of zone from A-1 Single Family to A-2 on property east of 70th and south of Wellington Greens and a community unit plan to increase the allowable density under A-1 from 67 to 81 units.

Patio Houses

Larson said he wants to build patio houses, which would have a zero lot line and share an open area to the rear—every two garages a butting—and townhouses in the area.

Higher density, he contended, has become necessary to keep homes within the price range which the average family can afford.

He said that if the increase in density in the community unit plan is allowed, the cost of homes could be reduced by as much as $4,000.

The change in density in the community unit plan apparently involves a question of policy in computing the density.

Larson is asking that he be allowed to compute the density without subtracting 20% of the 17-acre tract for streets, which is presently required if streets are not shown in the plan.

As an alternative, he is requesting a change of zone to increase the density.

Councilwoman Mrs. Helen Boosalis noted that the purpose of the community unit plan is not to allow increases in density over the standard development procedure, which is why the 20% subtraction is made.

Gerry Dolson, representing the Citizens for City Planning, appeared in opposition to the change of zone proposal, saying that the resulting increased density would be detrimental to the area.

Such a change, Dolson contended, could result in a misuse of land and cause additional problems in traffic and school overcrowding.

He also appeared in opposition to a proposed change of zone from A-1 Single Family to G Local Business on property on east side of Lyncrest Dr. between O St. and Eastridge Dr. to allow construction of a fabric supermarket.

Other actions:

Resolutions

—Approved removing requirement for dedication of right-of-way in connection with a subdivision permit at 52nd and A St.

Ordinances, First Reading

—Introduced creation of sewer district in area south of O St. from Beechwood Dr. to 84th.

—Introduced creation of sewer district in 27th from W St. north 200 feet.

—Introduced creation of a water district for a 6-inch main in Viola St. from Cornhusker Hwy. to Yolande Ave.

—Introduced prescribing corporate limits of city through annexing certain area west of 14th St. lying between Old Cheney Rd. and Hwy. 77.

Negro Is Shot Dead In Troubled Chattanooga

Chattanooga, Tenn. (UPI) — A Negro was shot to death Monday night during the fourth night of gunfire and firebombings in Chattanooga.

The unidentified man was found sprawled at a street intersection in predominantly black Alton Park area, about a mile from downtown Chattanooga. He had been shot in the lower abdomen, authorities said.

There were reports of sniper fire as some 1,500 National Guardsmen worked with police to enforce a strict curfew. A shotgun blast struck a firetruck as firemen sought to control a rash of firebombings.

Milder Found Guilty Of Tax Evasion

Omaha (UPI) — A federal jury in Omaha Monday night found Edward E. Milder guilty of not paying income tax on $99,000 from the Milder Oil Co. of Omaha from 1963-65.

A jury of eight men and four women got the case Monday morning after a final argument presented by U.S. Asst. Dist. Atty. Robert Becker.

Becker told the jury that the evidence showed the $150,000 Milder testified he kept in a little green box was just part of $240,000 taken over a period of years from the company.

Defense attorney Martin Cannon, in closing arguments, said the money Milder took could not be regarded as income since he did not make use of it but kept it in a small box in the office.

Judge Richard Robinson deferred sentencing until next month.

Omaha Major Crimes In '70 Totaled 11,962

Omaha (UPI) — The City of Omaha has the seventh lowest crime rate of 29 cities in the United States with populations of 250,000 to 500,000 persons.

Police Chief Richard Andersen said figures were compiled by the Police Department's research and planning unit. The cities are listed on the FBI's annual report.

During 1970, Andersen said there were 11,962 major crimes in Omaha, or 3,444 crimes per 100,000 population. He noted the arrest rate in all crime areas had increased.

Ahead of Omaha in the survey with less crime were El Paso, Tex.; Jersey City, N.J.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; San Jose, Calif.; Tucson, Ariz.; and Norfolk, Va.; The most dangerous of the cities in the 250,000 to 500,000 population class was Newark.

As China Thaws Diplomacy, It Reaffirms Commitment To World Revolution

Tuesday, May 25, 1971 The Lincoln Star 7

•The New York Times
Hong Kong — Recent Chinese moves for a thaw in relations with non-Communist countries have been paralleled in the last few days by a splurge of propaganda from Peking reaffirming Communist China's commitment to world revolution and particularly to revolution in Southeast Asia.

The new declarations from Peking have caused China analysts here to speculate that the Chinese Communists may be trying to reassure worried foreign revolutionary allies that Peking's new posture in foreign affairs does not mean any diminution of support for Communist causes abroad. Peking's reaffirmations highlight the old dilemma of a Communist power over the extent of help it can or should give to Communist movements abroad at a time when its purely national interests are involved in improving relations with governments and peoples opposed to these movements.

Displeasure Voiced
Both the governments of North Vietnam and North Korea are reported to have evinced displeasure recently with Peking's new people-to-people contacts with Americans and seeming readiness even to get on better terms with the U.S.

government. Similar expressions may well have come from other Communist movements in Southeast and Southern Asia about Peking's new moves toward the Philippines, Burma, Thailand and India.
The people's Republic of China has recently received not only visiting Americans but trade delegations from the Philippines and Malaysia. Trade deals were made with these delegations and preparations begun for what could eventually be the establishment of diplomatic relations.
There also have been reports of contacts between Thai and Chinese Communist officials. In Burma a new Chinese ambassador has been energetically cultivating friendly relations with the Rangoon government, and in New Delhi Peking's attitudes are less hostile than for some years.

Propaganda Downgraded
Simultaneously Peking has marginally downgraded its propaganda support for Communist revolutionists in Thailand, Malaysia and Burma. Regular reports by the Communist Chinese news agency, Hsinhua, about the progress of revolutionary activities in these countries have been dropped, and Hsinhua now confines itself merely to relaying reports and statement from the radio stations and other publicity organs of the revolutionists.
In the last few days, however, there has been an upsurge in Peking's declarations of support for revolution, occasioned by the first anniversary of a statement made by Chinese Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung on May 20, 1970. Calling on the peoples of the world to unite in revolution against "The U.S. aggressors and its running dogs" and predicting victory and promising Chinese Communist support for revolutionary movements.

waged by the Chinese people together with the revolutionary people throughout the world." The editorial said revolutionary struggles showed the two superpowers, the United States and the Soviet Union can no longer dictate the destiny of the world.
"U.S. imperialism finds itself in a more passive difficult and isolated position than ever," the editorial said, and "social imperialism (the Soviet Union) too finds the going tougher and tougher."
At the same time Hsinhua transmitted an article from Peking proclaiming progress by the Communist movements of Burma, Thailand, the Philippines, Malaysia, Indonesia and North Borneo and stated that through continued armed struggle these movements would eventually "seize victory." The joint editorial was followed up by a succession of articles hailing revolutionary movements in the U.S., Japan, Indochina, New Zealand, Australia, and Latin America. Other articles have denounced the government of Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and Japanese "militarism."

China Would Welcome Early Viet Peace

Hong Kong (UPI) — Two American university professors said Monday Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong want an early settlement to the Vietnam war and would accept the 1954 Geneva Convention as a basis to construct peace in Indochina.

Arthur W. Galston of Yale University and Ethan R. Signer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology made the announcements in an interview with United Press International before leaving Hong Kong after a one-month trip through the two Communist nations, the two scientists also said Chou told them China would welcome re-establishing diplomatic relations with the United States.

"Premier Chou told us that China wants us to recognize her and cease to support (Nationalist Chinese President) Chiang Kai-shek," said Signer.

Galston said the two Communist leaders told them they wanted an early end to the Vietnam war and were "prepared to accept the 1954 Geneva Convention as the basis for peace."

The two scientists, who both said they opposed the Nixon administration's policy in Indochina, were invited to visit China while they were in Hanoi. Asked how they felt about being the first American scientists to visit Peking following the steps of the U.S. table tennis team, Signer said:

"Naturally we were very pleased. We hope our visit will be the first of many American scientists."

"We also invited Chinese scientists to visit the United States in a personal capacity," said Signer. "They said they would like to visit the United States."

The News In Suburbia

In suburbia we find that although the members of a family may be very active in family and suburban activities, they also compose some of Lincoln's busy community workers.

Community involvement may be the project of an entire family, or only part of the family or even just one in an organization or project for individual or community betterment.

Two of our suburban women are involved in a very typical organization that takes in both of their daughters and involves them all in community projects. The two are Girl Scout senior advisor, Mrs. Wayne Roelle of the Bethany Park Heights area, and her assistant, Mrs. Jack Carey of Wedgewood Manor.

Monday night was a special night for their 21 girls in Senior Girl Scout Troop 131 because awards were presented.

The girls and their mothers met at St. Mark's United Methodist Church to recognize three graduating seniors — Mrs. Roelle's daughter, Cynthia, who will be an East High graduate; and Joyce Magorian and Nancy Kaye, both of whom will graduate from Northeast High School.

Following a program on Council, National, and Troop trips, a capping ceremony was held to invest ninth graders in to next year's Troop.

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine... lucky is the birthday person who can count how old he or she is on one or two hands — the rest of us usually need a show of hands and that can be depressing, especially if the room is full and the hand count is still short!

Our special birthday person this week needed only two hands and a nine count on Wednesday from his celebration. The honoree was nine-year-old Tom Lococo, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lococo of the Fene Heights area.

Tom's special love is pool, and since one should always "do what you want to do" on your birthday, (you guessed it!) Tom and his guests, Lyle Schuerman, Dale Sackett, and David Taisley, proceeded directly to a pool gameroom for the party. Too bad Tom's eight-ball didn't count nine on Wednesday, because he deserved the extra point!

Another family that has just returned to Lincoln, will be the envy of many of their suburban neighbors who have been caught indoors for the past few weeks. Sporting beautiful Florida tans are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Shapiro and their two children, Jackie and Stephanie. The Shapiros left their Wellington Greens home on May 1, with the destination point of Tampa Beach, Fla.

Two weeps of the trip were spent basking in the warm sun of the Florida beach. The remainder of the trip was spent visiting friends en route. On the return trip, Dr. and Mrs. Shapiro and their children took the gulf route along the coast. Their final vacation days were spent visiting friends and relatives in St. Louis where they spent the weekend before returning to Lincoln on Sunday afternoon.

Afternoon Wedding For Former Coed

The marriage of Miss Linda Jean Rae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas E. Rae of Columbus, to Robert W. Bergeson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bergeson of Billings, Mont., was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, May 22, at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Columbus. The Rev. H. M. Rothkamp read the lines of the 4 o'clock ceremony, and Brian Granquist played the wedding music.

The four attendants, including Mrs. Rick Carr of Hastings, the matron of honor; Miss Gretchen Davis of Grand Island, the maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Mary Bucholz of Lincoln and Miss Nancy Abegglen, wore pant suits in the parafit blue shade. The Empire bodices, fashioned with lace-cuffed Gibson sleeves, were fitted above the A-line pant-skirts which were bordered with lace at floor length. Their costumes were completed with wide-brimmed straw hats and they carried baskets of spring flowers.

Brian Hamilton of Papillion served as best man, and seating the guests were Steven Rogers of Lincoln; Tom Ryder of Bellevue; Dean Winchell of North Platte; Lee Glenn of Lincoln; John Agee of Omaha, and James Rae.

The bride appeared in a gown of satin-faced organza over taffeta in the antique white tone. Designed in the Empire mode the lace patterned bodice was patterned with Guipure lace which bordered the jewel neckline and cuffed the Bishop sleeves. The lace was repeated in a front panel which extended the full length of the gown and circled the hem of the A-line skirt which was completed with a cotillion length train. A Camelot bandeau held in place her bouffant veil of silk organza and she carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and gypsophelia.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip Mr. Bergeson and his bride will reside at 3515 So. 40th St., in Lincoln where both are juniors at the University of Nebraska.

The bride is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, and Mr. Bergeson's fraternity is Delta Tau Delta.

MISS PHYLLIS VAN BENTHUYZEN

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Van Benthuyzen of Galveston, Tex., of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Phyllis Ann, to Allan Preston Stone, son of Dr. and Mrs. George P. Stone of Lincoln.

The wedding is planned for Monday, June 7.

Miss VanBenthuyzen is a former student at Union College.

Mr. Stone is a graduate of Union College.

MISS ZOLA ROSS

Of interest to campus circles this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Ross of Grand Island, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Zola Rae, to Thomas R. Allen of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen of Port Washington, Wis.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, June 26, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Trinity Methodist Church in Grand Island.

Miss Ross will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Phi Mu sorority, and also is careering as a registered radiological technologist at Lincoln General Hospital.

Mr. Allen attended Whitewater State College in Wisconsin and is a member of Sigma Tau Gamma. He now is a factory representative for the Weyenberg Shoe Co., in Milwaukee, Wis.

town talk

If and when those 'lazy summer days' ever arrive the majority of the populace will give them an enthusiastic welcome. A 'lazy' day is something that Lincoln hasn't had for a long, long time — The calendar has been filled with a variety of board meetings at which the board named new officers for a variety of organizations.

And then, of course, there are weddings, weddings AND weddings.

One of the June weddings will be that of Miss Anita Druliner and Gary Morton which will take place on Saturday, June 12. Naturally there have been courtesies for the bride-elect and her fiancé.

On Monday evening Miss Druliner and Mr. Morton shared honors at a dinner for which Miss Druliner's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Druliner were host and hostess at their home. But even though dinner honors were shared, the after-dinner spotlight was not. There was a shower and the gifts all were for Mr. Morton — not his fiancée.

Speaking of weddings we're sure that everyone remembers that Miss Kathy Leuthauser has chosen Saturday, June 3, for her marriage to Paul Pinard of White Plains, N.Y.

When we mentioned Miss Leuthauser's attendants the other day, it seems that the name of her maid of honor was inadvertently omitted. So, there is no better time than right now that Miss Karen Leuthauser will be one of her sister's two honor attendants. The second one is Mr. Pinard's sister-in-law, Mrs. Steven Pinard of Farmington, Mass., and the bridesmaids will be Miss Deborah Walcroft of Los Angeles, Calif., and Miss Pamela Otto of Omaha. Mrs. Vernon Bock and Mrs. Kenneth McGill will be the bridesmaids, and serving as flower girl will be Lori Hampton. Douglas Pfanstiel will be the ringbearer.

PEO PLANS MEETING

The members of Chapter 457/574, PEO, will meet at 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. A. Olson, 925 So. 52nd St.

The News In Suburbia

In suburbia we find that although the members of a family may be very active in family and suburban activities, they also compose some of Lincoln's busy community workers.

Community involvement may be the project of an entire family, or only part of the family or even just one in an organization or project for individual or community betterment.

Two of our suburban women are involved in a very typical organization that takes in both of their daughters and involves them all in community projects. The two are Girl Scout senior advisor, Mrs. Wayne Roelle of the Bethany Park Heights area, and her assistant, Mrs. Jack Carey of Wedgewood Manor.

Monday night was a special night for their 21 girls in Senior Girl Scout Troop 131 because awards were presented.

The girls and their mothers met at St. Mark's United Methodist Church to recognize three graduating seniors — Mrs. Roelle's daughter, Cynthia, who will be an East High graduate; and Joyce Magorian and Nancy Kaye, both of whom will graduate from Northeast High School.

Following a program on Council, National, and Troop trips, a capping ceremony was held to invest ninth graders in to next year's Troop.

One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine... lucky is the birthday person who can count how old he or she is on one or two hands — the rest of us usually need a show of hands and that can be depressing, especially if the room is full and the hand count is still short!

Our special birthday person this week needed only two hands and a nine count on Wednesday from his celebration. The honoree was nine-year-old Tom Lococo, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lococo of the Fiene Heights area.

Tom's special love is pool, and since one should always "do what you want" on your birthday, (you guessed it!) Tom and his guests, Lyle Schuerman, Dale Sackett, and David Taisley, proceeded directly to a pool gameroom for the party. Too bad Tom's eight-ball didn't count nine on Wednesday, because he deserved the extra point!

Another family that has just returned to Lincoln, will be the envy of many of their suburban neighbors who have been caught indoors for the past few weeks. Sporting beautiful Florida tans are Dr. and Mrs. Robert Shapiro and their two children, Jackie and Stephanie. Opening lead — two of diamonds.

Let's say you're in four hearts and West leads a diamond. Naturally, the first thing you do is count your losers, and in doing so you assume that any finesses you decide to take will lose, and, by the same token, that suits will break as badly as possible.

Your preliminary search reveals that you may lose two spades and two clubs and go down one. However, this gloomy outlook is not final because you might be able to salvage a club loser by playing the queen of diamonds from dummy, and also you might be able to save a spade trick later by leading a spade from dummy towards the K-J.

It costs you nothing to finesse the diamond at trick one, for if it loses you will be able to park one of your clubs on the ace. So you finesse the queen, which loses to East's king, and back comes the king of clubs.

You duck this on general principles, whereupon East continues with the queen, thus marking himself with the jack. This time you win with the ace, discard a club on the ace of diamonds, and lead a spade from dummy, East following low.

Whether to put on the jack or the king would ordinarily be a mighty tough guess, but in the present case you should surely play the jack.

East, who has shown up with the K-Q-J of clubs and king of diamonds, is scarcely likely to have the ace of spades, since he failed to open the bidding as dealer. Your only real hope, therefore, is that West, who is marked with the ace, does not also have the queen. As it happens, the jack play is successful and you wind up making four hearts.

The bidding:
 East South West North
 Pass 1♥ Pass 3♥
 Pass 4♥

Opening lead — two of diamonds.

Let's say you're in four hearts and West leads a diamond. Naturally, the first thing you do is count your losers, and in doing so you assume that any finesses you decide to take will lose, and, by the same token, that suits will break as badly as possible.

Your preliminary search reveals that you may lose two spades and two clubs and go down one. However, this gloomy outlook is not final because you might be able to salvage a club loser by playing the queen of diamonds from dummy, and also you might be able to save a spade trick later by leading a spade from dummy towards the K-J.

It costs you nothing to finesse the diamond at trick one, for if it loses you will be able to park one of your clubs on the ace. So you finesse the queen, which loses to East's king, and back comes the king of clubs.

You duck this on general principles, whereupon East continues with the queen, thus marking himself with the jack. This time you win with the ace, discard a club on the ace of diamonds, and lead a spade from dummy, East following low.

Whether to put on the jack or the king would ordinarily be a mighty tough guess, but in the present case you should surely play the jack.

East, who has shown up with the K-Q-J of clubs and king of diamonds, is scarcely likely to have the ace of spades, since he failed to open the bidding as dealer. Your only real hope, therefore, is that West, who is marked with the ace, does not also have the queen. As it happens, the jack play is successful and you wind up making four hearts.

The Interesting Hrondik Family

BY PHYLLIS WOOLLEN

"Every child should have a home," Harry Holt said in 1955. As a result of this conviction, Mr. Holt travelled to Korea, and returned with eight adopted children.

Some 15 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Holt established the Holt Adoption Program in Ill San, a city in South Korea. The program is primarily for adoptions of hundreds of Korean and Korean-American children both in Korea and America.

Last week, Miss Molly Holt, daughter of the late Mr. Holt, paid a visit to Lincoln. Miss Holt has continued in the footsteps of her father and mother. A graduate of the University of Oregon School of Nursing, she has served for six years as a TEAM (The Evangelical Alliance Mission) missionary in Korea.

Miss Holt first went to Korea shortly after the Holt Adoption Program was organized 15 years ago. Since that time she has served as Director of the Holt Orphanage in Korea, and has also been personally responsible for bringing hundreds of children from orphanages and baby homes to Ill San for adoption. In addition, she has worked to save lives and raise the standard of care in orphanages all over South Korea.

She is currently working with a public health project in Chun Ju, Korea. "As part of my missionary work," she explained, "I am loaned out to help people and agencies work for themselves. As soon as the people can handle the work themselves then the missionary moves on to a new place."

Miss Holt was in Lincoln to pay a visit to the Robert Hrondik family. Mr. and Mrs. Hrondik adopted two Korean-American children through the Holt program some 10 and a half years ago.

"At the time we were living in New Jersey," Mrs. Hrondik explains. "We could adopt by proxy then, and we always had wanted to adopt children."

"We discovered the Holt program through a book authored by Mrs. Harry Holt, 'Seed From The East,'" Mrs. Hrondik continued. The book served as the inspiration point for the Hrondiks, whose two oldest children, David who is 11 and Diane who is 10 were adopted at the ages of 5 months and 4 months respectively.

The Hrondiks also have two children of natural birth, Sandy, who is nine years old and Penny who is three. Also residing with the family are two Cree Indian foster children, Darla — who is eight, and Vera, a seven-year-old.

Mrs. Holt stated that although it is preferable that Korean children be placed in homes within Korea, the adoption process has not been as well accepted there as it has been in the U.S. It is, however, better that children of mixed race live in the U.S. where they are more readily accepted.

Anyone interested in further information about the Holt Program should write to Holt Adoption, P.O. Box 95, Cresville, Oregon. Letters should be addressed to the executive director, Rev. John E. Adams.

let people know—and watch out

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 66-year-old man, in excellent health. My dear wife of over 40 years died four years ago and I am very lonely. I would like to find myself a lady friend, but I have a rather strange preference for heavy women.

I would like a woman who weighs anywhere from 250 to 300 pounds, and with a huge bust. Her age could be from 50 to 65 years old. Where could I find such a woman? Is there a club in California I could join: I am not a prejudiced person. The lady could be any color.

BORN IN EUROPE

DEAR BORN: I know of no club that specializes in large women, but you should have no trouble if you have only one head. Just let a few friends know that you are in the market for a woman who is at least 250 pounds on the hoof, and wait for the stampede.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a gentleman I'll call "John" for three years. He wants to marry me and honeymoon in Europe. My problem is that when I first met John, I told him that I was only a year older than he, which is not true. I will need a passport and visa, which of course will bear my real age. While traveling together, a passport will be

John. Should I tell him my real very difficult to conceal from age now? Should I wait until after we are married? Or should I try to keep it from him as long as possible? He may not want to marry me when he finds out how old I really am.

ANONYMOUS, NATURALLY

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Tell him now and take your chances. If age makes that much difference to John, if you marry him first, he might terminate the marriage after he learns the truth.

DEAR ABBY: You said that you find "well-manicured" beards extremely attractive. For your information, you can no more manicure a beard than you can give your fingernails a haircut.

RAY Z

DEAR RAY: Landscape artists speak of "manicuring" a lawn, so if a lawn can be "manicured" — why not a beard?

DEAR ABBY: I have been a professional artist most of my life. Not only do I love to paint, but it has been a tremendous help to me financially. Last year my husband died, and soon my one child will be leaving for college. The thought of my being alone has depressed me so much that I haven't been able to paint lately. If I don't produce something soon I fear that my reduced income will present a serious problem. How can I pull myself out of this vicious circle?

IN A SLUMP IN L.A. DEAR IN: Start a new circle. A circle of new friends. Join your local art council. Museums and universities from coast to coast have membership associations. Dues go for education and acquisition. And members go for fun. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: Tell the woman who asked you whether or not she should marry an ex-priest to go ahead and marry him. He will make an excellent husband. He already has taken the oath of poverty, obedience and chastity. BORN IN BUCYRUS, O.

Lose this and you're out everything.

Lose this and you don't have to lose anything.

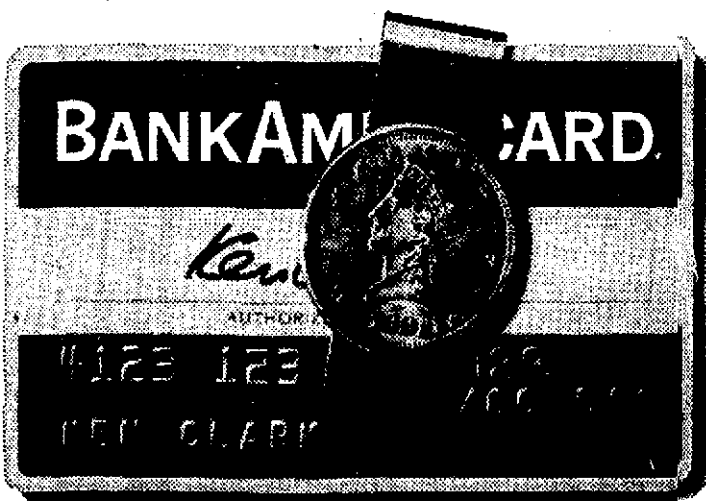

When you think of BankAmericard® as money, it helps you be as careful with it as you would with cash. But no matter how careful you are, sometimes money is lost or stolen. That's when the true value of a BankAmericard shows up.

Because if you lose folding money, you're out of luck. But when you lose your BankAmericard, all you have to do is notify your BankAmericard bank in time to prevent fraudulent use of your card. If you do this, you won't be out a penny. It is possible that a dishonest person might find and use your BankAmericard before you've notified your BankAmericard bank. Even then, your maximum liability is $50.

One way to make sure you know the minute your BankAmericard is missing is to use it whenever you shop and travel. Instead of carrying a lot of separate cards—or a lot of cash—carry just your BankAmericard. It's good wherever you see the blue, white and gold "Welcome" sign. POSTCARD by Stan DeLap

Such fine summery weather (blue sky, blue water, daisies all over the place) we popped down to the wharf for the Great Crab Contest.

The Crab Cooking Olympics are held each year on Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco. They have become famous.

Restaurants from all over the world send their fish chefs.

Prenedes of Mexico City sent 10 cooks.

They spent all night with Al Williams in his posh Mexican Restaurant in the Fairmont Hotel. Stayed up all night just preparing to do what they did the next day. It is a serious affair.

The Great Crab Olympics were held at Sabella's. It is one of the oldest and most distinguished fish houses on the wharf.

The lady at the door gave me a pin marked "Press." She said, "I hope you won't be offended if somebody tells you to get out."

She said: "The chefs are very nervous — one of them walked out in the first half hour."

While she said it, a man in a high white chef's hat and white jacket cried: "Bah!" He said to his assistants: "Pack up everything!"

A number of officials hurried over and began soothing him.

The other chef contestants went on with their work. Putting little frills of chopped condiments on beds of aspic. Hanging delicately carved vegetables precisely around bowls of crab and cracked ice.

They all looked crabby. So did the crabs.

When you go to San Francisco's Nob Hill, you must go to Al Williams Mexican Room for great Mexican food.

When you go to Mexico City, you should go to Prenedes. It is down in the old city. The Conquistadors Mexico. The streets narrow down to carriage width, and the church bells ring solemnly as they have since Spanish Friars hung them there.

A lot of tourists take a look and back out. They go some place where the lights are low and the music is soft.

Prenedes is brightly lighted. It's floors are white tile. The waiters have been there a hundred years. Before you sit down, they slap the chair smartly with a napkin from the arm. Their tuxedos are shiny.

But when the President of Mexico has a banquet, Prenedes is called on to cater it.

Before the chefs could toss me out at knife point, I went upstairs to the Sabella's bar. Al Williams joined me and he said: "The Prenedes people are very serious about this. They had the serving plates specially made in Guadalajara."

The plates were warm brown pottery with a raised crab design.

A bunch of TC cameramen went down to the contest room. You could hear a lot of screaming and cursing. Chefs are edgy people.

There was a fine smell of cooking crab all through the place. And from the windows we could see the crab fishing boats, tied up and rocking on the tide.

The day was warm and bright. The police had their uniform coats off and pinned their stars on their shirts.

Sombody phoned me later with the results: Big winner was Raif Kalenka who cooks for Northwest Orient Airlines. Winner in the second division was Guido Brendicke who cooks at the Ala Moana Hotel in Honolulu. (Representing American Air — remember these two next time you complain about airline food.)

Prenedes didn't get in the running. Viva Mexico anyway, I say.

New gas air conditioning is better because it's cleaner and costs less to operate.

Gas air conditioning is cleaner because it filters, dehumidifies and circulates all the air in your home. Dust, dirt and pollen are trapped in a filter. Then fresh, clean, cool air is blown gently into every room.

Gas air conditioning costs less to operate because there are fewer moving parts. Less to wear out and less to service.

Such fine summery weather (blue sky, blue water, daisies all over the place) we popped down to the wharf for the Great Crab Contest.

The Crab Cooking Olympics are held each year on Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco. They have become famous.

Restaurants from all over the world send their fish chefs. Prendes of Mexico City sent 10 cooks.

They spent all night with Al Williams in his posh Mexican Restaurant in the Fairmont Hotel. Stayed up all night just preparing to do what they did the next day. It is a serious affair.

The Great Crab Olympics were held at Sabella's. It is one of the oldest and most distinguished fish houses on the wharf.

The lady at the door gave me a pin marked "Press." She said, "I hope you won't be offended if somebody tells you to get out."

She said: "The chefs are very nervous — one of them walked out in the first half hour."

While she said it, a man in a high white chef's hat and white jacket cried: "Bah!" He said to his assistants: "Pack up everything!"

A number of officials hurried over and began soothing him.

The other chef contestants went on with their work. Putting little frills of chopped condiments on beds of aspic. Hanging delicately carved vegetables precisely around bowls of crab and cracked ice.

They all looked crabby. So did the crabs.

When you go to San Francisco's Nob Hill, you must go to Al Williams Mexican Room for great Mexican food.

When you go to Mexico City, you should go to Prendes. It is down in the old city. The Conquistadors Mexico. The streets narrow down to carriage width, and the church bells ring solemnly as they have since Spanish Friars hung them there.

A lot of tourists take a look and back out. They go some place where the lights are low and the music is soft.

Prendes is brightly lit. It's floors are white tile. The waiters have been there a hundred years. Before you sit down, they slap the chair smartly with a napkin from the arm. Their tuxedos are shiny.

But when the President of Mexico has a banquet, Prendes is called on to cater it.

Before the chefs could toss me out at knife point, I went upstairs to the Sabella's bar. Al Williams joined me and he said: "The Prendes people are very serious about this. They had the serving plates specially made in Guadalajara."

The plates were warm brown pottery with a raised crab design.

A bunch of TC cameramen went down to the contest room. You could hear a lot of screaming and cursing. Chefs are edgy people.

There was a fine smell of cooking crab all through the place. And from the windows we could see the crab fishing boats, tied up and rocking on the tide.

The day was warm and bright. The police had their uniform coats off and pinned their stars on their shirts.

Somebody phoned me later with the results: Big winner was Raif Kalenka who cooks for Northwest Orient Airlines. Winner in the second division was Guido Brendicke who cooks at the Ala Moana Hotel in Honolulu. (Representing American Air — remember these two next time you complain about airline food.)

GEN. PEERS SAYS . . .

Colonel 'Was In Good Shape'

Ft. Meade, Md. (P) — Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, who conducted a Pentagon inquiry into the alleged coverup of the My Lai massacre, said Monday that Col. Oran K. Henderson "was in good shape" when the inquiry began Dec. 2, 1969.

The general told a Ft. Meade evidence hearing that he came to that conclusion after reviewing preliminary reports and interviews before his investigation began.

Under cross-examination, however, Peers said that when Henderson testified as the first witness, he was warned he possibly might become suspect of failing to report war crimes or dereliction of duty, two charges later placed against the colonel.

Asked To Recall

Peers was asked by Lt. Col. Frank J. Dorsey, chief military defense counsel, whether he could recall such a warning being given any of the other 400-odd witnesses appearing before the inquiry the following three months.

"No, I can't," the general replied.

Peers acknowledged that he once told Dorsey during an interview before Dec. 2 he considered Henderson and others in the military chain of command "key suspects" in the alleged coverup.

Henderson's place in the chain of command in Vietnam was at the brigade level between the parent Americal Division and Charlie Company, the unit which assaulted My Lai.

"It would be people in the chain of command who would be the logical people who would have information of the incident," Peers said. "If there was a breakdown, that's where it would have occurred."

The general said he did not suspect individuals in the chain of command until after the inquiry was under way.

The question of when Henderson, who commanded the 11th Brigade in the My Lai area at the time of the March 1968 massacre, became a suspect is central to defense contentions that the colonel was not properly advised of his rights by the Peers inquiry.

Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, the military judge, has agreed to rule on a defense challenge to the admissibility at Henderson's pending court-martial of his testimony before the Peers panel.

The defense has argued that Henderson's military and constitutional rights were violated because the inquiry elicited testimony from him before he was specifically told he was under suspicion.

Magee Demands Judge Withdraw

San Rafael, Calif. (UPI) — Ruchell Magee tied up the Angela Davis case again Monday by demanding that its sixth presiding judge withdraw, lecturing Miss Davis' attorney on the law, and calling his own lawyer a "Ku Klux Klanner."

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason listened patiently, then recessed the long-stalled murder - kidnapping - conspiracy case once again.

Another delay was in prospect while an outside judge is brought in, according to law, to decide whether Arnason should be disqualified.

It was the 193rd day in jail for Miss Davis, the black militant, avowed Communist and former UCLA faculty member, since she was arrested on charges of buying guns for the bloody Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County courtroom kidnapping and shootout.

As Miss Davis waited quietly at the defense table, her attorney, late in the hearing, made a vain attempt to get the charges against her dismissed — a move which drew a rebuke from Magee.

Miss Davis has yet to enter a plea because of the long delays over judges, most initiated by Magee, a 32-year-old convict and self-taught lawyer accused of taking part in the shootout and of killing a kidnaped judge with a shotgun.

Specialists Study Transportation Plans In Omaha

Omaha (P) — A group of transportation specialists is studying plans for an expanded "personalized mass transit system" costing an estimated $91 million in Omaha.

Four more routes have been suggested for a high-speed automatically operated elevated rail transportation system proposed last month to operate along Dodge Street from downtown to 112th Street. Planning Director Alden Aust said one new route would extend to South Omaha another through Council Bluffs, Iowa, a third to the north-west and a fourth to Eppler Airfield. He said the proposals are part of a study to determine the feasibility of such a system that would be commercially operated.

Mt. Josephine Dearborn, Mich. (P) — The U.S. Board of Geographic Names has approved the naming of an antarctic mountain after Edsel Ford's only daughter, Josephine.

Satellite Of Moon To Be Launched Before Astronauts Head For Earth

Washington (P) — Astronaut Alfred M. Worden demonstrated Monday that he will be the busiest man ever to remain in parking orbit around the moon while awaiting the return of his Apollo 15 companions from the lunar surface.

Worden and National Aeronautics and Space

Administration scientists working with him described seven complex experiments for which he will be responsible as command module pilot during the 67 hours that his teammates, David R. Scott and James B. Irwin, are down on the moon.

An eighth will be performed after Scott and Irwin rejoin

Worden in lunar orbit and just before they start the return journey to earth.

At that moment Worden will fire into a 60-mile-high circular orbit around the moon a small sub-satellite somewhat resembling a larger-than-ordinary rural mailbox, carrying three experiments of its own.

Worden said the subsatellite is designed to remain in lunar orbit gathering useful data for at least 88 days, but may be kept in operation for up to a year—"it will stay there as long as we care to play with it."

An S-band radio transponder will gather data on the lunar gravitational field, especially the gravitational variations called mascons, caused by unusual concentrations of mass at certain points under the moon's surface.

The 78½-pound subsatellite also will carry a magnetometer to obtain physical and electrical property data about the moon, and a third experiment, a device to measure the changes in flow of charged particles as the spacecraft moves around from the front to the back and then to the front side of the moon again.

The experiments Worden will monitor in his own orbiting command-and-service module involve devices on 25-foot-long booms to measure the chemical composition of the lunar surface through radiation and X-ray fluorescence.

Apollo 15 is to be launched July 26. The lunar landing is planned for July 30. The two men on the moon are to return to their mother craft Aug. 2, and the return flight is to end with a Pacific Ocean splashdown Aug. 7.

Blacks Say Minorities Not Helped

Washington (UPI) — The House black caucus said Monday the Nixon Administration was not even willing to spend the time and money to reach its own goals for helping minorities — much less fulfill Negro demands for social reform.

The 13 black lawmakers, all Democrats, held a news conference to denounce President Nixon's reply to their 60 recommendations to help minorities, given to the White House two months ago.

Reiterating their threat to bypass party lines and loyalties, the caucus indicated it would work for social changes through coalitions of Negroes, Indians and Mexican-Americans.

"The days of taking black and poor voters for granted is over," the 13 Democrats said in a statement.

Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., said the caucus would give the political system a "total chance," but that he would not rule out the possibility that blacks and other minority groups might feel it necessary to use other means, which he did not define.

Nixon's reply, the caucus said, "constitutes less a response than a reply, couched predominantly in the form of bureaucratic reports intent on justifying the status quo."

"Time and again, throughout the 100-odd pages, the administration has shut off the possibility of new, and we believe promising, initiatives. Too often it proposes no genuine alternatives at all."

"... The predominant thrust of the administration's reply places one central fact in harsh perspective: national decision makers do not define the critical problems facing blacks, the poor, our youth and our nation in ways which may result in their solution and are not prepared to commit the necessary power and resources to achieve their own stated goals," the caucus said in a statement released at a news conference.

Answering questions, caucus members said they would help political candidates, black and white, who supported meaningful efforts to solve minority problems.

Caucus chairman Charles Diggs, D-Mich., said the group intended to continue its liaison with the White House, despite its criticism of Nixon's reply.

Nixon Said Leveling On Vietnam War

Key Biscayne, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House contended Monday it levels with the people about Vietnam war policies, despite a Gallup poll report that said two-thirds think the administration tells them less than it should.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon from the outset has "made a very specific point to communicate our policies to the American people, and he will continue to do that."

"I think," Ziegler told reporters, "the American people understand the course of action the President is following to bring the conflict in South Vietnam to a completion and to reduce the U.S. forces there."

The press secretary indicated he thought the outcome of polls is influenced by the phrasing of questions. But he steered around a direct answer when a reporter wanted to know whether he thought the Gallup question was loaded.

The Gallup results appeared in Sunday newspapers. It said Nixon is facing a giant credibility gap on Vietnam. And it reported that in response to a question asking whether the administration is telling all it should on Vietnam, the result was 67% "no," 24% "yes" and 9% with no opinion.

Government Plans To Borrow Up To $500 Million From U.S. Banks' Overseas Branches

Washington (AP) — The Treasury Department announced Monday it will borrow up to $500 million of U.S. currency from overseas branches of American banks.

The decision, taken on the heels of an international monetary crisis, means the United States is trying to soak up some of the flood of dollars on deposit in Europe.

The Treasury said it is issuing special three-month certificates of indebtedness to overseas branches of American banks. The special borrowing issues will bear an interest rate of 6 3/4%, higher than the prevailing short-term interest rates in the United States. It is the second U.S. attempt to pull back to the United States some of the excess dollars from Europe. The first such offering was made before the dollar crisis broke early this month. A glut of dollars overseas triggered the monetary crisis. As a result, the dollar was undermined from its set rate of exchange with several European currencies. However, the Treasury's new borrowing overseas will make only a small dent in the amount of dollars on deposit there. The Treasury said it will receive subscriptions from foreign U.S. bank branches until Wednesday. It will make payment on June 1.

Blacks Say Minorities Not Helped

Washington (UPI) — The House black caucus said Monday the Nixon Administration was not even willing to spend the time and money to reach its own goals for helping minorities — much less fulfill Negro demands for social reform.

The 13 black lawmakers, all Democrats, held a news conference to denounce President Nixon's reply to their 60 recommendations to help minorities, given to the White House two months ago.

Reiterating their threat to bypass party lines and loyalties, the caucus indicated it would work for social changes through coalitions of Negroes, Indians and Mexican-Americans.

"The days of taking black and poor voters for granted is over," the 13 Democrats said in a statement.

Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., said the caucus would give the political system a "total chance," but that he would not rule out the possibility that blacks and other minority groups might feel it necessary to use other means, which he did not define.

Nixon's reply, the caucus said, "constitutes less a response than a reply, couched predominantly in the form of bureaucratic reports intent on justifying the status quo."

"Time and again, throughout the 100-odd pages, the administration has shut off the possibility of new, and we believe promising, initiatives. Too often it proposes no genuine alternatives at all."

"... The predominant thrust of the administration's reply places one central fact in harsh perspective: national decision makers do not define the critical problems facing blacks, the poor, our youth and our nation in ways which may result in their solution and are not prepared to commit the necessary power and resources to achieve their own stated goals," the caucus said in a statement released at a news conference.

Answering questions, caucus members said they would help political candidates, black and white, who supported meaningful efforts to solve minority problems.

Caucus chairman Charles Diggs, D-Mich., said the group intended to continue its liaison with the White House, despite its criticism of Nixon's reply.

Nixon Said Leveling On Vietnam War

Key Biscayne, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House contended Monday it levels with the people about Vietnam war policies, despite a Gallup poll report that said two-thirds think the administration tells them less than it should.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon from the outset has "made a very specific point to communicate our policies to the American people, and he will continue to do that."

"I think," Ziegler told reporters, "the American people understand the course of action the President is following to bring the conflict in South Vietnam to a completion and to reduce the U.S. forces there."

The press secretary indicated he thought the outcome of polls is influenced by the phrasing of questions. But he steered around a direct answer when a reporter wanted to know whether he thought the Gallup question was loaded.

The Gallup results appeared in Sunday newspapers. It said Nixon is facing a giant credibility gap on Vietnam. And it reported that in response to a question asking whether the administration is telling all it should on Vietnam, the result was 67% "no," 24% "yes" and 9% with no opinion.

Lincoln Elementary School Teacher Receives $1,000 Scottish Rite Award

A Lincoln elementary school teacher Monday was named recipient of the $1,000 Scottish Rite Distinguished Teacher Award.

In ceremonies at Prescott Elementary School, the award was presented to Lee Ann Vaclavek, who has taught at Prescott since joining the Lincoln Public Schools staff in 1965.

The award was presented by Fred J. Swihart, venerable master of the Scottish Rite Valley of Lincoln.

Project Developer Miss Vaclavek is chairman of the primary one level at Prescott and has been a member of the teacher team that developed the Teachers College Advisory Board Pilot Project (TAPP), a pre-student teaching project at the University of Nebraska.

"She recognizes the importance of her role as a primary teacher and the relationship of this level to the child's total school career," said Prescott Principal Sam Nelson, who recommended Miss Vaclavek for the award.

"She possesses an unusual talent for giving all children the best possible start in education," Nelson said.

Staff Development Nelson also cited her work with public school-sponsored staff development courses.

Miss Vaclavek was a member of a special reading instruction project centering on individualized remedial reading and has implemented that knowledge in working with children throughout the Prescott student body, Nelson added.

Miss Nelson is an active member of the Lincoln Education Association and of state and national professional associations. She holds a masters degree from NU.

The teaching award was established seven years ago by the Scottish Rite to emphasize a belief in the "American public school."

City Expects Aid For New Elderly Program

A federally aided program for Lincoln to help keep the elderly at home instead of in institutions was announced Monday.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and Ron Jensen, head of the Nebraska Commission on Aging, announced that the city is in line for a $220,000 annual program to develop new alternatives to institutionalization of the elderly.

The program, which is in the final application stage, will be one of ten such projects to be approved nationwide. Grant funds to support the project will go to the Commission on Aging, which will then contract with the city.

Both officials noted that the expected federal approval of the project could make Lincoln a model community in meeting the needs of its older citizens.

Services which could be supported under the grant include homemaking assistance, transportation, expanded meal-on-wheels, telephone reassurance and other component services designed to make it possible for older persons to remain in their own homes.

Such programs would be offered by a variety of organizations, and if the project is successful, an eventual redirection of effort should result, Schwartzkopf and Jensen said.

The starting date of the project would be June 30, assuming federal approval, with the grant to be renewed on a year-to-year basis.

Funds would be released in two installments. The first release would support an initial 120-day program development period. Once an acceptable and detailed plan has been developed for the provision of direct services by individual local agencies, the remaining funds would then be released.

How Much Service Are You Getting for Your Service Calls?

By Ivan Gross, Customer Service Manager
Bryant Airconditioning and Heating Co.

If you are a typical home owner, you have probably had occasion to call for service on some appliance or component in your home. You ask what the price for a service call will be and you get a vague answer . . . but . . . since you need service . . . you decide to let the firm provide it.

When the service is completed, you discover that you have been charged an exorbitant "trip charge" somewhere in the vicinity of nine to twelve dollars! On top of this, you are being charged an additional minimum time charge of no less than 30 minutes. You are angered over the excessive costs but unfortunately there is nothing you can do about it.

In our business there is something you can do about it. You can have your air conditioning or heating plant service for considerably less . . . There is no high "Trip Charge" . . . our charge is $4 (compare it the next time you need service) and the minimum time charges are broken down in 15 minute increments . . . you pay for only the time spent on the job . . . not for time that is not used.

People all over Lincoln are discovering that you do get more from your service dollar at Bryant . . . Yes, we are growing and are progressing because we believe that our customers deserve the best for a lot less than they are accustomed to paying. I keep asking the question, "Why Pay More?" . . . Let us service your heating and cooling unit as it should be and at a price you can afford to pay. ## Julie Eisenhower Accepts Fulltime Teaching Position

Atlantic Beach, Fla. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower, who has been a practice teacher in Head Start programs in Washington, will assume her first fulltime teaching job next fall in this Jacksonville suburb.

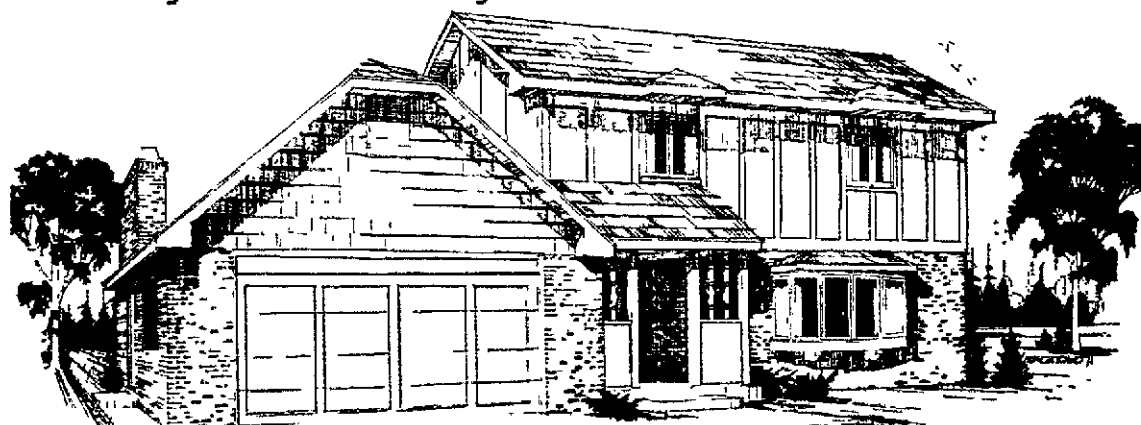

The Duval County School System announced Monday that President Nixon's younger daughter has accepted a contract to teach a fourth grade class in the Atlantic Beach Elementary School.

She and her husband, Ens. David Eisenhower, are expected to move into a garage apartment in Atlantic Beach this summer. They will live here while Eisenhower is assigned to the nearby Mayport Naval Station.

Mrs. Eisenhower will start teaching here Sept. 8 after attending a pre-school workshop that starts Aug. 23. A spokesman for the school system said she will be paid slightly above the minimum $6,800 salary since she has extra credits toward a master's degree.

Legislators Still Face 56 Bills And 3 Vetoes

By The Associated Press

Nebraska's Legislature enters Tuesday upon the last two days of the 1971 session, faced by 56 bills up for final passage, at least three gubernatorial vetoes to be dealt with, and the customary session-ending routine.

Tuesday's agenda calls for final reading on 25 bills.

In prospect Tuesday also are motions to override Gov. J. James Exon's veto of two recently passed bills — increasing state aid to schools by nearly $50 million a year, and making mandatory the issuance of $3 million in highway revenue bonds this year.

Vetoes No. 6, 7

The vetoes, sixth and seventh by the governor this session, were delivered to the legislative clerk late Thursday, shortly after senators had completed

Campaign Cost Disclosure Wins Support Of Nixon

Washington (U) — The Nixon administration opposed Monday a ceiling on campaign contributions but backed full disclosure of political financing.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and other witnesses told the Senate elections subcommittee that full disclosure is the best way to correct the present system. But they supported other approaches also, including limitation of advertising expenses, and tax incentives to encourage small contributions.

The subcommittee, a unit of the Rules Committee, began its own hearings on a reform bill already approved by the Senate Commerce Committee.

Kleindienst recommended deletion of a $5,000 limitation on the amount any individual or group could contribute to the campaign of a candidate for federal office.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, also testified in favor of striking out this provision.

Both said the limitation could be evaded and it would be more effective to require, as the bill does, disclosure of how much money a candidate spent and where it came from.

Mrs. Meir Says Sadat Offers Hope

Copenhagen, Denmark (U) — Premier Golda Meir of Israel said Monday that President Anwar Sadat handled the recent Egyptian government upheaval with "a lot of courage and a lot of ability," but that it is now up to him to tell his people: "No more fighting," and lead them into negotiations for a peace agreement between Egypt and Israel.

Once he has said that and acted on it, then he will really go down in history as a great leader of his people," said Mrs. Meir.

She said her government is watching the Cairo situation closely in the hope that "any change may be for the better" and bring a Middle East settlement closer. She added, however: "Whether this will really happen, I cannot tell."

Mrs. Meir, nevertheless, paid an unexpected tribute to her Egyptian antagonist. Referring to the upheaval in the Egyptian leadership she said: "Mr. Sadat undertook quite a difficult task. I must pay him what is coming to him. He showed a lot of courage and a lot of ability."

Mrs. Meir reiterated objections to the interim agreement proposed by U.S. Secretary of State William F. Rogers for reopening the Suez Canal in return for a partial withdrawal of Israeli forces.

"As long as there is fighting and the danger of fighting, then naturally where the (Israeli) army is is the best defense line," she asserted.

Any progress on the plan, she added, would have to be linked to continuing negotiations, a cease-fire and no crossing of the canal by Egyptian forces of their Russian advisers.

Exon Still Plans To Be Elected Demo Delegate

Gov. J. James Exon Monday said he will still seek election as a delegate to the 1972 Democratic National Convention even if the Legislature authorizes the party to select four convention delegates on its own.

At issue is LB661, which is scheduled for final reading in the Unicameral on Wednesday. If it clears the Legislature, Exon said, he will sign it.

But, he noted, "I will still take my chances with the voters" rather than seek delegate status through selection by the 1972 Democratic state convention.

Transit Plans Expand

Omaha (U)—Plans for four more routes in the proposed "personalized mass transit system" for Omaha are under consideration. They would extend to South Omaha, Council Bluffs, Iowa, northwest and to Eppley Airfield. The price tag was set at $91 million.

She said her government is watching the Cairo situation closely in the hope that "any change may be for the better" and bring a Middle East settlement closer. She added, however: "Whether this will really happen, I cannot tell."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SIDNEY OMARR ★

Forecast For Tuesday

Those who write to me, regardless of age, are mainly in quest of love. The search for emotional fulfillment knows no age limits. Those who think money is the most important factor where happiness is concerned should read my mail. Without love, all the money in the world means much less than might be imagined. All zodiacal stars seek love—but Leo, Scorpio and Sagittarius make more noise about it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You find ways of breaking away from the past. Some who thought you lacked spirit now commend you. You get on more solid ground. There is a greater opportunity for accomplishment.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are more flexible than usual. There is variety and curiosity in your basic thought scheme. What appears a financial dilemma could be transformed to advantage. Gemini individual will aid.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accent on domestic harmony. Realize happiness consists of basic ingredients. Cycle continues high state needs, desires in frank manner. Take initiative. Set pace. You will win.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be analytical. Nourish your inner feelings. Key is delicacy. Avoid the obvious. Accent the subtle. Seek harmony self-realization. Your quest now should be regarded as sacred.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Friendship is intensified. Don't play games with emotions. Stakes are high: be true to your own feelings. Some whisper sweet nothings. Be careful in clinches. You have much to gain.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasize wide appeal. Enlarge horizons. There is no need to be limited in concepts, ambitions. Take long-range view. Be aware of potential. Clear lines of communication.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): One you meet now plays significant role in your future. Be receptive to new ideas, proposals and challenges. Don't sell yourself short. Write, communicate, enlarge personal horizons.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Trust intuitive feelings. Lead inner voice. Interest in occult is heightened. You pursue subtle, trying to find reasons for recent happenings. Discernment is needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Efforts may be scattered. Leave details to others. You tend now to be slightly careless where fine print is concerned. Leo individual will prove a delightful companion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Steady application now gets job done. Don't neglect one who aided in past. Be thorough in approach. State needs in specific manner. Leave little or nothing to chance. Accent on employment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Investigate. Discover what you want and how to obtain it. Give full rein to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions. Pleasure indicated through contacts with young persons. Accent the creative.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Stress diplomacy. Win your way through charm. Forcing methods now will not suffice. Domestic harmony is a requisite. Include family members in special plans. Build on solid base.

Four Stares Head Ak-Sar-Ben Weekend

BIG MEMORIAL DAY WEEKEND GETS UNDER WAY THURSDAY

Omaha — C. E. and G. M. Nicholas's Agronomist is fit and ready for the challenge of Ak-Sar-Ben's major stakes program.

Last Saturday, under the skillful riding of Wendell Leeling, Agronomist won his second straight $20,000-added Ak-Sar-Ben Board of Governors' Handicap.

The 5-year-old gelding is expected back for the $25,000-added King's Handicap which is to be run on May 31. The King's Handicap will highlight a big Memorial Day holiday weekend program of racing at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Kicking off the big weekend will be the $10,000-added Princess Stakes for three-year-old fillies to be run Thursday over six furlongs.

Friday's feature will be the $15,000-added Queen's Handicap for fillies and mares three years old and up at six furlongs.

Saturday's card will be highlighted by the $12,500-added Breeders' Sprint Stakes for Nebraska-bred three-year-olds.

Topping the list of nominations for the Princess are Chou Croute, owned by Isidore Newman II and J. M. Jones Jr., of New Orleans, and Miss Spy Song, owned by Donald F. Clugston and Rex E. Ekwall of Millard.

Flight Crew, Goyama's Star, Noble Nova, and Pelani are nominees who have won here this year.

Cloute Cowan's Kathryn's Doll, winner of an allowance race here last Saturday, has been assigned high weight of 128 pounds for the Queen's Handicap. Gold Rags, owned by the M. H. Van Berg Stable, Inc., has been assigned second weight of 120 pounds.

Expected to head the field for the Breeders' Sprint are Mr. Ogle and Four Way Split who ran one-two in last week's $7,500-added Good Neighbor Stakes.

By Associated Press

The Washington Senators, buried in the American League East cellar, blew a five-run first-inning lead, then bounced back to surprise the division-leading Boston Red Sox, 8-6, Monday night.

In the only afternoon game of Monday's abbreviated schedule, Orlando Cepeda broke a 3-3 tie in the fifth inning with his 12th homer, a two-run blast that propelled Atlanta to a 9-4 romp over Montreal.

Cincinnati's Gary Nolan gave up only one hit in seven innings — but that one was a two-run homer in the second by Dennis Doyle that lifted the Philadelphia Phillies to a 2-1 triumph over the Reds. Rick Wise, 4-2, scattered six hits to notch the victory.

Bob Gibson was shelled from the mound in the fourth inning as the San Diego Padres snapped the St. Louis Cardinals four-game winning streak, 12-3, with Clarence Gaston and Dave Campbell each driving in four runs.

Omaha Still Seeking

Omaha (AP) — The sports committee of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce will make another bid to locate the high school state track and field championships in Omaha.

Omaha Burke was awarded the 1970 meet but the Nebraska School Activities Association changed its mind after a disturbance following the state basketball tournament at Omaha's City Auditorium.

A representative of the NSSA board of control, Arnold Smith of Bellevue, said he felt the NSSA would be receptive to an Omaha bid and invited the chamber group to attend the next board of control meeting.

Pius Coach Salvages Fond Tourney Memory

Losing the Class B golf tournament was probably disappointing to Pius X coach Kerm Mortensen, but his entire day at Pioneer's Course Monday won't go down as a bad one.

The Thunderbolts were one of the pre-meet favorites to win the title, but settled for second two strokes behind Auburn. After the tournament, however, Mortensen fired a round of golf which included a hole-in-one on the 17th hole.

Niobrara Canoe Races Scheduled For June 6

Valentine (AP) — The sixth annual Niobrara River canoe races are scheduled June 6, with entrants competing in seven divisions.

The races will be over a nine-mile course starting at Cornell Dam four miles east of here. The entry deadline is 8 p.m. June 5.

Smith Fires Ace

Doug Smith fired a hole-in-one on the 137 yard, 8th hole at the Jim Ager Jr. Golf Course Monday afternoon. Smith used an eight iron for his ace while playing with his brother Jay.

Omanan A Bell Ringer As Kansas State Sprint Star

BELLS ON HIS SHOES, TOOTHPICK IN MOUTH IDENTIFY SPEEDSTER

By DAVE WRIGHT
Manhattan Mercury
Muhammed Ali had his tassets, Freddie Williamson his hammer and Ken Harrelson his long hair and flashy clothes. Dean Williams has his bells and toothpick.

The trademarks, along with some ability, made the others famous.

Williams, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound freshman from Omaha, Neb., may be following in their footsteps—as a sprinter at Kansas State.

The trademark is there. Williams wears bells on his shoes and has a toothpick in his mouth when he runs.

Williams also has the confidence and the ability to become a great runner.

"Ever since my senior year in high school," Williams said, "I've known I could run with the best. I came down here (Kansas State) and got the chance to do it. And I've been doing it. I'm not going to be satisfied until the world record is mine."

Williams already has a wind-aided 9.3 in the 100-yard dash to his credit at the Texas Relays. In the Kansas Relays, he twice ran unaided times of 9.4 in the preliminaries to tie the Kansas State record held by Thayne Baker and Charlie Collins.

The bells and the toothpick might sound like cockiness but, "I want people (opponents) to know I'm coming, especially in the 100," he explained. "If I'm ahead, they won't catch me. But if I'm behind, I want 'em to hear me coming."

At the Texas Relays, a new pair of shoes presented a problem for the bells. The shoes were the new type with cloth-to-cloth straps instead of laces. But Williams put the bells on a rubber band and looped the band through the straps.

He had trouble with his toothpick at Texas, too. Williams said it fell out of his mouth while he was running the first leg of the 440 relay.

"I tried to grab it with my left hand but couldn't," he said. His right hand was holding the relay baton.

Williams said his toothpick was a habit with him. He always had one in his mouth and just forgot to take it out for things like football practice and races. The idea of running with it stuck.

"I feel kinda bad without my toothpick," he grins.

It doesn't bother Williams to know he's running against some of the greatest sprinters, including world record holders.

"I think I can beat any of them," he said. "I don't care who they are. He can be the fastest person in the world, and I'll race him."

Williams was called for a close false start in the preliminaries at Kansas. He claims it wasn't a false start—that he was just quicker out of the blocks than the rest.

"If they hadn't called that jump, I would have run at least 9.1 (world record)," he said. "I don't get a good start very often but whenever I do, it's gonna be blazing."

Williams came to Kansas State without a scholarship after being rejected by home state Nebraska. So the Wildcat staff knew little about him.

Assistant coach Lon Floyd, who handles the sprinters, admits he had his doubts about Williams when he showed up for the first indoor meet with toothpick and bells.

But when Williams won his heat in both the preliminaries and semifinals, Floyd became a believer and so have some of the nation's top sprinters.

J. Edgar Hoover Says Martha Mitchell Great

By CHRISTOPHER LYDON

of the New York Times

Washington (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover, the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, made one of his now rare public appearances this evening to honor Martha Mitchell, the wife of his boss the attorney general and, as Hoover put it, "one of the most lovable girls I've ever met."

In wry, staccato exchanges with reporters and in a five-minute speech to the American Newspaper Women's Club, Hoover, 76, revealed that he reads his critics closely but not always seriously.

It is not true, he said, that he suffers from heartburn or sleeps with a nightlight, though he does wait up late, he said, hoping for one of Mitchell's impulsive phone calls.

Alluding to the marble bust of his own famous bulldog face on a recent cover of Life magazine, he apologized to those who didn't recognize him in person: "We emperors have our problems," he said, "my Roman loga was not returned from the cleaners."

His comments covered a wide spectrum: On Jack Anderson, the syndicated columnist who has analyzed such evidence from Hoover's garbage can as antacid pill bottles and toothpaste tubes for clues about the man: "He's not a reporter, he's a scavenger. He's the top scavenger among the columnists."

On his retirement plans: "None whatsoever." On Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell: "Contrary to the impression created by a 'sick cartoonist' who makes Mitchell 'sow' as if he had mental halitosis, the truth of the matter is I've never met a finer man."

On Martha Mitchell: "She says what she thinks and lets the chips fall where they may," avoiding the "weary rhetoric" that is more common in Washington. She is "so gracious, so kind, so considerate — I just love Martha Mitchell and that's why I came."

On the press: Newspapers are a "real bulwark of freedom," he said. Women reporters have done a superior job at "searching out the truth." There are "very few jacks among the ladies of the press."

Male reporters, he continued, tend to be "cattier." Jack Nelson (who has written a number of exclusive reports about FBI operations for the Los Angeles Times) is "next to a skunk." Conservative columnist J. J. Kilpatrick and David Lawrence are "the greatest of all—but that puts me in the square category, too," he said.

On women's liberation: "I'm not ready to join that." The question about Hoover's retirement was raised by Janet Staihar of the Associated Press. As soon as she spoke, Mitchell, standing nearby at the Shoreham Hotel, commented, "You're so far off base, I'm going to belt you one—or pour a drink..." Tipping his cocktail glass toward Miss Staihar, he paused and smiled. "Oh, oh, I'm kidding."

Mrs. Mitchell was honored by the newspaper women as headliner of the year.

Washington (AP) — A Nixon administration plan to end CIA financing of anti-Communist radio stations in Europe was described Monday by Sen. J. W. Fulbright as a deception intended to provide a new cover for an old cold war operation.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was critical also of the State Department's refusal to disclose publicly the CIA's 20-year role in the operations of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty.

Martin J. Hillenbrand, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, testified that the stations have been a major asset to the United States and its Western allies.

He endorsed a plan to funnel congressional appropriations — at a rate of $30 million yearly — to the two stations through a new Council for Private International Communications.

Washington (AP) — A Columbia University anthropologist reported Monday on a two-year field study of four generations of a New York Mafia family.

He found that the children of the Mafia are turning away from the organization, and that some of its activities are being taken over by blacks and Puerto Ricans.

Dr. Francis Ianni said his research shows that both of two prevailing views of the Mafia are inaccurate — the Justice Department view that there is a monolithic national organization and the view of some that the whole idea is a radical slur.

"We think it is kinship that holds the organization together," Ianni said. It is this strong sense of kinship — rooted in their past in the native villages of southern Italy — that binds Mafia members together, he said, not any formal organization or ritual as described by Joseph Valachi.

But this kinship is slipping as generations pass, Ianni said. Out of 27 sons in the fourth generation, he said only four went into the family business, becoming instead doctors, lawyers, one a university professor.

Three sons of the Mafia, he said, are being replaced largely by blacks and Puerto Ricans, with the Mafia providing protection for them while they run the street operations.

Ianni described his work to a briefing on the social and behavioral sciences held by the Council for the Advancement of Science Writing and paid for by the Russell Sage Foundation.

The members of the Mafia are practicing Catholics, Ianni related, the male is dominant, they are "violently anti-Semitic" although they often live in predominantly Jewish areas and use Jewish expression, and they are "suprapatriots, on the Vietnam war they're real hawks."

Diocesan, School Fund Campaigns Top Goals

The Diocesan Development Program, a fund-raising campaign which provides for a percentage of money collected to be returned to parishes for school support, is nearly $100,000 over the total goal for the diocese, Fr. James Dawson told the Lincoln Catholic Board of Education Monday night.

In addition, Fr. Dawson said the campaign for school funds exceeded its goal by about $12,000, as of May 14.

The Lincoln diocesan superintendent of schools also pointed out to board members the passage of a bill in the Nebraska Legislature "that would benefit private school children in Nebraska."

The bill provides up to $15 in books on loan from public schools for students in grades nine through 12.

Fr. Dawson said the first child to apply for books under this bill would be the "test case." He said the bill would probably be tested in the Nebraska Supreme Court "before mechanics can be worked out."

In new business action, the board voted to establish a committee to study salary inequities for elementary and secondary teachers and to determine if the board should take over jurisdiction of setting salary schedules.

Election of officers will take place during the June 21 board meeting, to be held in the lower level of the Cathedral of the Risen Christ.

Getting The Jump
London (AP) — All new British superhighways are being equipped with special police car parking ramps so officers can be faster off the mark in emergencies.

Precautions Taken
Nuernberg, Germany (AP) — City authorities banned aircraft flights over Nuernberg to protect an exhibition of Albrecht Durer paintings from possible damage by plane crashes.

Bus Race Ends
Panama City, R.P. (UPI) — A bus racing another on a bridge over the entrance to the Panama Canal crashed through a guard rail Monday and plunged 150 feet, killing 38 of 43 passengers.

Five survivors were in critical condition at Gorges Memorial Hospital in the Canal Zone.

Police quoted eyewitnesses as saying the two buses were racing at about 50 miles an hour when the driver of one lost control as two lanes converged. The crash ripped through the five-inch-thick steel tubing guard rail of the Thatcher Ferry Bridge, which links the Northern and Southern Hemispheres.

The victims were Panamanians.

There is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 4. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
